Economy Gains, Rate Of Inflation Surges

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's economy recorded a strong gain in the first three months of the year, but the post-freeze rate of inflation surged to a sharp 6.2 per cent, the government said today.

The Commerce Department reported that Gross National Product, market value of the nation's goods and services, rose $30.3 billion in the January-March quarter, advancing at an annual rate of 11.8 per cent.

But well over half the increase was attributed to inflation, as prices soared following the close of the wage-price freeze and the onset of President Nixon's Phase 2 economic controls.

GNP is the broadest measure of the economy. The Nixon administration has projected that it will rise by 9.4 per cent for all of 1972.

The $30.3-billion gain brought GNP to a seasonally adjusted annual rate of $1.103 trillion, the department said.

The increase was about in line with administration projections lthough the rate of inflation was sharply above the forecast.

According to administration projections, about two-thirds of the expected 9.4 per cent growth is supposed to be a noninflationary gain.

But the figures for the first quarter showed that the gain in that period, with inflation discounted, was 5.3 per cent.

This was slower than the 5.8 per cent recorded in the last three months of 1971, when the economy quickened after a mid-year slowdown.

GNP increased $19.5 billion in the last three months of last year, but the rate of inflation was only 1.7 per cent.

The 6.2 per cent figure on price increases the first quarter was the highest since the 6.3 per cent recorded in the fourth quarter of 1970, Commerce officials said.

The administration says the post-freeze bulge in inflation already has subsided and the slower rate should show in later statistics.

In another report, the department said personal income of all Americans increased $3.3 billion in March to a seasonally adjusted annual rate of $905 billion.

The department also said personal income in February actually increased by $9 billion instead of the $5 billion reported originally.

It said the unusually large February revision took into account estimates of retroactive pay increases approved by the Pay Board.

Dean Bloomfield Dies In Columbia

Richard Bloomfield

Dr. Richard A. Bloomfield, 39, acting dean of the graduate school of the University of Missouri in Columbia and a native of Sikeston, died at 12:45 a.m. today at the Boone County Hospital in Columbia. He was 39.

Dean Bloomfield was born Jan. 2, 1933 in Sikeston. His father was the late D. L. Bloomfield. His mother, Mabel Walton Bloomfield, lives in Sikeston.

He married the former Mary Jane Terrell of Sikeston, who survives. Also surviving are three children, Cynthia Louise, Matthew David and Emily Jane Bloomfield and a brother, Lee Bloomfield of Essex.

Memorial services will be Thursday at 2 p.m. in tthe Missouri United Methodist Church in Columbia with the Rev. Otto Steinhaus officiating. Parker Funeral Service of Columbia is in charge.

Dr. Bloomfield compiled enviable records in fields of teaching, research and administration as a member of the faculty at the University of Missouri.

As a teacher he was recognized for superior teaching in 1969 by Gamma Sigma Delta, honorary graduate fraternity. His former students at that time submitted letters commending him in such terms as "his course was the most interesting chemistry course I took in college," a wish that the University "had more teachers like him," and "his enthusiasm for chemistry is contagious and increased our interest in the subject."

In research, nearly $200,000 in grants attested to his ability.

He moved through the ranks of assistant professor to full professor, associate dean of the Graduate School, and since last September as acting dean of the Graduate School, which indicated his ability in administration.

Dr. Bloomfield obtained all of his agricultural chemistry degrees, a bachelor's in 1954, master.s in 1958, and doctorate in 1960, at UMC. His underclass studies were at Southeast Missouri State College at Cape Girardeau where he was enrolled from 1950-52. His schooling was interrupted in 1954-56 for service in the Army Chemical Corps. As a graduate of Sikeston high school in 1950, he had been

Prisoners Can Work In Towns

CHAFFEE — Scott County Sheriff John Dennis told the county mayor's association last night that county jail prisoners are available for work projects in towns and in the county.

Dennis said the courts prefer to have the prisoners work rather than sit idly in jail. The prisoners also like the idea, Dennis said, because they get three days off their sentences for every day they work.

Dennis said the prisoners can be used for cleaning up brush, cemeteries, rights of-way and other projects.

He said he doesn't have enough deputies to provide overseers for the projects so it will be up to the towns to pick them up at the jail, supervise their work, feed them their noon meal, and return them to jail at night.

Dennis said no dangerous prisoners will be used. He said only those serving sentences for misdemeanors will be allowed to work. They are not likely to try to escape, he said.

Tongate Leaves Zoning Group

E. L. Tongate has resigned from the City Planning and Zoning Commission and the group last night nominated Realtor Ted Elliott to fill the vacancy.

Tongate, a member of the commission since its founding in 1968, resigned yesterday for "personal reasons."

Raymert Miller suggested the commission nominate Elliott. Miller said the commission could use the expertise and insight that a real estate agent could bring to the board. Elliott must be appointed by the city council.

Commission members were also impressed with Elliott's handling of a property line dispute on the east side of Dempster Street. Until now, no one had been able to decide where the property lines on 12 lots were located. Elliott was able to dig out an amended plat at Benton showing the placement of the property lines.

Owners of the property in question then agreed to move their lot lines 20 feet south. Elliott said this would put the property lines where the owners always assumed they were. The commission approved the plan.

A proposed 20-acre subdivision north of Murray Lane between Clayton and Keith- McCord additions was approved by the commission. The development will include 60 single family and multi-family units. The property is owned by Clifford Cole of Piggott, Ark.

Acting City Manager Bill Whitlock told the commission the city would probably break ground in about a month for the new city park west of the airport. He said the completion date for the park is set for Dec. 31, 1973.

The plan was prepared by the Bootheel Regional Planning Commission, Malden, with assistance by the Department of Community Affairs, Jefferson City.

Chairman Johnson praised the work of the Bootheel Commission in preparation of the plan, which explains in detail problems of East Prairie and recommendations for solutions of existing problems.

Hoai An Is Sixth Viet Town To Fall

SAIGON (AP) - North Vietnam's three-week -old offensive scored today in coastal Binh Dinh Province east of the central highlands as Communist forces overran a South Vietnamese battalion headquarters and captured the nearby district town of Hoai An.

It was the first major success on the central coast for the offensive, in which the North Vietnamese previously have taken a 10-mile strip below the demilitarized zone and captured two district towns near the Cambodian border north of Saigon.

The defenders of Hoai An, 300 miles northeast of Saigon, and Landing Zone Orange, the battalion headquarters two miles away, fled in confusion. Field reports said that in a week of fighting prior to the climactic thrust, at least 80 government troops were killed and 70 were wounded.

Hoai An is the sixth of South Vietnam's 242 district towns lost by the government in the enemy offensive, while landing Zone Orange is the 18th government military position given up. Landing Zone Pony, just south of Hanoi An was abandoned under pressure two days ago, field reports said.

Three American advisers were evacuated by helicopter from Hoai An and Orange. One of them was slightly wounded.

A battalion of South Vietnamese troops from the 22nd Division fled from Orange under heavy fire. "They broke up and ran," said one field report.

In the air war, meanwhile, U.S. fighter-bombers returned inforce to North Vietnam's skies after a two-day curtailment and flew between 100 and 150 strikes against fuel and supply depots in the southern panhandle.

The planes stayed away from the Hanoi-Haiphong heartland for the third straight day, U.S. military sources said.

A SOCIAL CONTRACT:
THE MANAGEMENT OF CHANGE

Effective response to social change is possibly the most demanding challenge for all of us in the 20th Century.

Many aspects of American life are under attack. On the business side, profit is suspect. The concept of rising standards of living, once known as progress, is today all too often labeled "false" or "crass" materialism. The utilization of nature's resources is regarded by many as ecological destruction. Technology is charged with being the enemy of human values. Size achieved through efficiency is considered somehow illegal and immoral.

In accepting the responsibilities of its social contract — to furnish to the consumer the goods and services he wants at a satisfactory return to owner - investors — industry has depended upon the general public and the government to provide a reasonably harmonious atmosphere in which to provide and distribute its products and services.

A changing value structure, however, materially affects the social contract under which American companies historically have functioned. That's why effective management in these troubled times must choose to manage change and not to become its victim.

Typical of the new breed at the top of American business are the men running American Can Company. Under the guidance of Chairman of the Board and President William F. May, American Can — itself and American institution — has accepted as a major management responsibility the function of listening and reponding to "what the public is trying to tell us about ourselves and about themselves. Management must also satisfy the legitimate needs of three participating partners — its customers, its owners and its employees — and strike a balance that is fair to all three."

This, according to Mr. May in the company's 1971 annual report, explains "our continuing and expanded efforts in litter and pollution control, our individual and inter-industry participation in projecting the new industry of resource recovery, our enlarged listening posts in government relations, and our preoccupation with the intricate human interactions generally termed public affairs."

The top managment at American Can probes into these areas, not simply for intellectual stimulus, but for guidelines to the successful management of change itself! We relate to this kind of enterprise. No company or institution can stand apart from these considerations without disaster. Change is a fact.

We're all in this ball game together.

CHANGES IN EDUCATION --
WITH A GRAIN OF SALT

Scarcely a week passes that somebody doesn't come up with a new method or a new gimmick to make learning easier, more effective and more certain.

The Department of Health, Education and Welfare in fact predicts that "an entirely new range of teaching techniques" will be introduced within the next 5 years, not excluding "the use of controlled nutrition or drugs to raise I.Q., accelerate reading or enhance awareness."

According to University of California education professor Dr. Laurence Iannaccone, "there is no question that public education will undergo a revolution in the next 10 years" — a drastic change in who runs the schools, what is taught and who learns.

Dr. Joel Spring, professor of education at Case Western Reserve University, charging that public schools follow a ritualistic process to "fit" people into society, recommends doing away with schools altogether and in their place setting up a voluntary system of education within society.

"There wouldn't be school dropouts if there weren't schools," he says.

At the other extreme, a panel of 17 distinguished educators and educational innovators claims that the only reason progressive education has apparently failed is because, like Christianity, it has never really been tried. Hard progressive education entered the mainstream of American education after it was first introduced at the turn of the century, they suggest, we might not now be faced with such critical problems as the polarization of the races.

A common thread linking all these complaints is the unspoken understanding that when we talk about education, we are talking about education for the young. The underlying philosophy is that all children begin as eager and receptive vessels, and that if they fail to be filled with knowledge, it is the teacher's fault or the system's fault.

Nobody ever complains about the state of adult education. Nobody calls for a revolution in the night school classrooms or in the postgraduate school, at least as far as teaching methods are concerned.

There are, of course, good ways and bad ways to teach adults. It can be made easy or it can be made difficult for an immigrant, for example, to learn English, or for a displaced worker to learn a new skill.

But essentially, there is simply a certain body of knowledge to be acquired and the adult either acquires it or he doesn't. He usually does, because he wants to. He sees a clear connection between what he desires in life and what he must know in order to pursue his desires. He doesn't need to have his awareness "enhanced" or to have knowledge pumped painlessly into his head while he isn't looking.

Children, obviously, aren't adults. They are set apart from the adult world, especially in this technological age when adolescence extends into their 20s. They lack the experience and responsibilities which give adults the motivation and inner discipline necessary for learning. They are rapidly changing physically and psychologically and are prey to all kinds of fears about those changes. They have parent problems, peer problems.

Just growing up is hard enough without the added pressure of having to learn all the things adult society says they must learn.

This has been the problem in education ever since man stopped being predominantly a hunter or a farmer, and the most ingenious new pedagogic approach isn't going to solve it.

Maybe Spring has the right idea. Maybe we ought to do away with compulsory schooling and make education entirely voluntary.

This would put a lot of educators and "educational innovators" out of work. But they could always get jobs teaching adult classes to those who drop out of school as kids and later drop back in with a vengeance.

A 'REACTIONARY'
AND PROUD OF IT

Consider the case of Mrs. Patricia Young, a Vancouver (Canada) housewife and a some-time newspaper columnist. She went to a meeting in her hometown recently and heard a left-wing speaker sound off about "reactionaries."

Mrs. Young went home seething. She sat down at her typewriter and produced a rebuttal that is, in its way, a classic, It is being reprinted widely. She speaks for a lot of us when she writes:

Just for the record -- and without apology -- I AM A REACTIONARY! I re-act to sin and sadism, riots and revolution, gutlessness and Godlessness; to philosophies and sophistries which seek to destroy those values which make a country great, and which fashioned the very fabric of civilized mankind.

I re-act to dancing the permissive polka with those who would whirl me all the way to Hell while whispering that "God is Dead'. and that the Devil is nothing but a myth. Yes, I am a reactionary: I re-act to those ministers who would convert my church into a hootenany hall or a political forum.

Yes, I'm a reactionary. I re-act to the emasculation of my Faith in the name of humanistic togetherness; I re-act to those who would seek to destroy my love for the Holy Bible, and my loyalty to the flag, and my esteem for the police.

I re-act to charges that I am personally guilty for other people's failures -- as if I personally poured liquor down the alcoholic's throat, or peddled the heroin, or mugged a little old lady, or created the slums or invented The Bomb!

I re-act to the glorification of the welfare state as a substitute for working for a living. I re-act to stupid kids who turn to pot and away from pink lemonade. Yes, indeed, I am a reactionary: I re-act to those who advocate The Pill instead of purity, and demonstrations instead of dedication, and desire over discipline, selfishness instead of sacrifice. I react to those who constantly prate about "rights" but who don't give a darn what's RIGHT.

I re-act to the portrayal of my friends in America as "fascist beasts", and to those who regard communist dictators as Santa Claus. I react to those who consider love as nothing more than sex, and who contend that "art" is a film showing unmarried couple in bed together. Yes, sir, I re-act to student radicals who preach "peace" in order to promote surrender, and who are so in love with themselves that they would destroy all values except their "right" to be against everything.

I'm a reactionary, yes I am: I re-act to the stupid sentimentality of amateur-do-gooders who like carved wooden monkeys, see no evil, speak no evil, and hear no evil -- even when it runs riot with a shotgun, molotov cocktail or plastic bomb. Oh, do I EVER re-act! I re-act to the phonies who would rewrite Little Red Riding Hood to have her "rehabilitate" the wolf while screaming "hatemonger" at the woodsman coming to her resuce.

You'd better believe I'm a reactionary. In my book, it's time all responsible adults began re-acting instead of suffering the insults, inconveniences and intimidations of a noisy minority who would sacrifice their own freedom -- and ours -- on the altar of atheistic materialism.

If the MAJORITY will just begin re-acting, the kooks and the creeps would soon crawl back under their rocks, and this tired old world would have time to bind its wounds and regain its sense of humour.

Now that the City and School Board elections are over, it causes us to wonder why it is that the ladies who run in the races for city councilmen and for the school borad, run poorly. Is it because the women in the community will not vote for them? Almost every other town that had any women in the races, the ladies, at least one of them, would get elected. The school boards all over the country have at least one lady on it, and of course, I don't know about the councils all over the country. I'm satisfied with the way the election turned out in Sikeston, but it looks to me like the ladies ought to do better. The school board ought to have a lady member, and it wouldn't hurt the council to have a lady member, then it is a good thing that people don't listen to me, they wouldn't want anything like I propose.

EARRINGS BOTHER?

"Oil was discovered on the farmer's land and the first thing he did was hurry to town for a new car. The salesman showed him a classy model for $5,000.

"I am ready to pay cash," said the farmer. "Will I get a discount?"

"Why of course," the salesman replied. "We will give you a 10 per cent discount for cash."

Being unfamiliar with higher mathemathics the farmer said he would think it over and return later.

He walked into a restaurant and over his coffee sat trying to figure what his discount would be. Finally, in desperation, he called the waitress and asked, "If I were to give you 10 per cent of $5,000, how much would you take off?"

Blushing prettily, the waitress whispered, "Would my earrings bother you?"

SEEKS VOLUNTEERS
TO COLLECT LITTER

A "Johnny Horizon" cleanup campaign to rid public lands of litter has been launched by the U. S. Department of the Interior.

While designed mainly for public lands administered by the Federal government, the campaign is equally applicable to state and local parks, forests, beaches and streams, according to the Department.

The Johnny Horizon program includes both an educational effort to reduce careless littering and an action program to clean up littered recreational sites and publicly owned and publicly used lands.

Keep America Beautiful, Inc. estimates that removing litter is a $500 million yearly economic burden and that volunteer clean-up efforts can make some of this money available for more productive uses.

Further info may be obtained from the Johnny Horizon Program Coordinator, U. S. Dept. of the Interior, Washington, D.C. 20240. Ask for the free booklet, "How to COnduct a Clean-up Campaign."

BUSINESS LEADER SAYS
CAPITALISM NEEDS
'HARD SELL'

People need to be sold upon the importance of the American capitalistic business system, according to a leading industrialist.

E. J. Dwyer, chairman and chief executive officer of ESB, Inc., Philadelphia, Pa., and chairman of the board of the National Association of Manufacturers, told an audience of West Coast business leaders recently that business men themselves must undertake this educational task.

"The need to sell the American people on the importance of the capitalistic business system and the dynamic role of profits in making it preeminent among all systems on the globe has received the benign neglect treatment from most of us," Mr. Dwyer said.

"Among the characteristics that have made our economic system outstanding," he said, "is that it has developed on the principle of serving people. The manager of a business enterprise is now expected to get involved in improving the environmental conditions under which his employees work and enjoy life. He is frequently called upon to provide leadership in providing solutions for education, housing, and equal opportunity, as well as other areas of man's striving to better himself.

"While business' contribution to the betterment of people has been unequalled," the NAM chairman said, "there is no widespread understanding as to what has made this possible.

"First and foremost, of course, it is the business manager's ability to make a profit on the investment others have made in the enterprise," Mr. Dwyer said. "Those detractors of the system who attack profit-making as evil fail to perceive that only by our ability to make a profit can we provide the jobs, enlarge the benefits, and generate the financial means of taking care of other human needs."

HOW'S YOUR TONGUE?

Tongue twisters are always a lot of fun. Ever so often a new one comes to our attention. But the old ones are still fun to try again and again and they really are quite helpful in learning to speak plainly.

Here's an old one:

Here is one that will improve your "B" sounds, or else!

Betty Botter bought a bit of butter. "But," she said, "This butter's bitter. If I put it in my batter, it will make my batter bitter. But a bit of better butter will make my batter better." So Betty Botter bought a bit of better butter, and it made her batter better.

Here are a couple to try out your "S" sounds. Be careful or you will hiss like a snake!

Of all the saws I ever saw saw, I never saw a saw saw like that saw I saw saw down in Arkansas.

Sinful Caesar sipped his snifter, seized his knees and sneezed.

TURKS REOPEN PORTS

Naval forces of the United States have been given the green light once agian to visit Turkish ports. The announcement was made in Ankara by Turkish Premier Nihat Erim as he prepared to visit the U.S. He didn't say what he would ask of the government in Washington but part of his statement on reopening the ports to units of the U.S. 6th Fleet is interesting.

He said the Turkish ports could now welcome the Fleet because of a successful crackdown on "Leftist anti-American elements."

"At one time riots instigated by communist propaganda unfortunately prevented such visits," the Premier told a news conference. Why the crackdown was launched earlier is not explained. This statement and the actions of the government do not sound like the Turkish leadership of yesteryear. This apparent fear of the aftermath of communist propaganda bears no relationship to the quality of Turks who stood so valiantly with us in battling communism in Korea.

Communism, through its propaganda, has become a powerful agent in the world, but we of the freedom side are stronger. What we need to do to counter its effect is to tell our story and make it be heard around the world. The ports of the world ought to be open to all commercial shipping and to friendly visits of foreign naval ships. Turkey nor any other nation should let the fear of communist riots close them.

Communist riots can and should be subdued. Some rioting in his country in summers past was attributed to conspirators by responsible police officials. Neither we, nor the Turks, should allow ourselves to be intimidated. HLH.

NEW YORK (AP) — I'm all for equal rights for women, with a single exception. I am perfectly willing-nay, eager-to continue giving my husband exclusive rights in one department: going out to get the Sunday papers.

This is a task that must be performed 52 weeks a year, rain or shine and there seem to be 49 rainy Sundays to three shiny ones. Not only do I dislike going out in the rain, hail, snow, sleet or gloom of morning, but I am prepared to admit that the male is more suited than the female to fetching and carrying New York's hefty pile of Sunday news print.

Of course, going to the corner stationery store to purchase the papers is a minor effort compared with the major problem of getting them read.

By means of a well-researched system, a precise time schedule, a course in speed reading and a 14-hour shift I have managed to eyeball my way through the three massive newspapers we regularly buy on what should be a day of rest.

But now, a Long Island paper has started a Sunday edition, which complicates my modus operandi. The first decision I was faced with upon this newcomer's appearance was where to fit it into the routine. Should I read it first? Should I sandwich it in between Paper A and Paper B and upset a succession of many years' standing? Should I save it for the finale?

When to read it, however, is not as pressing a question as how to get it read at all. In the past I have barely managed to find time to prepare lunch between the travel and entertainment sections of one paper and dinner between the magazine and week in review of another.

There are several possible solutions: 1. get an early start by buying some of the papers Saturday night; 2. read the news in one paper, the editorials in another, the columns in a third and the comics in the fourth; 3. skip the news and read only the ads; 4. don't read them at all but use them in weight-lifting exercises, since those four papers weigh over 12 pounds.

The trouble with the last alternative is that when I have achieved equality with my husband in the muscle department he may insist that I go out and get the Sunday papers myself.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON — The reason Congress has done nothing to stop the Pentagon motor pool from becoming a costly taxi service for bigwigs may be that Members of Congress are some of the principal passengers.

Members of the Armed Services and Appropriations committees are routinely chauffeured about town in military cars. Indeed, the Pentagon maintains special rented Cadillacs for the chairmen.

Even righteous old George Mahon, D-Tex., the hymn-singing House Appropriations chairman, has been unable to resist the temptation of the Pentagon's free limousine service.

Last December, a black sedan hauled the tall Texan to Friendship Airport so he could catch a vacation flight to Puerto Rico. Military regulations, incidentally, forbid trips to Friendship Airport except in emergencies.

Questioned about this, Mahon, who is also chairman of the Joint Committee to Reduce Federal Expenditures, said he didn't know about the regulation and hoped he hadn't violated it. He insisted the ride to the airport was an exception to his normal practice of keeping the military at arm's length.

What makes the chauffeuring of congressmen especially expensive is that the Pentagon has never been able to learn the difference between doing things effectively and doing them efficiently. To make sure congressional passengers reach their destination on time, it is customary for their military drivers to make a rehearsal trip before the scheduled time.

--TEST RUNS--

A car frequently will pull up in front of a congressman's home, pause briefly, then drive to an airport or other location just to find out how long it takes. For example, such a dry run was made last January 2 to the home of Rep. Paul Findley, R-Ill., who needed transportation to the airport so he could take his wife to Russia.

The motor pool made a similar test run for Rep. Don Fraser, D-Minn., who took his wife on the same trip, a junket sponsored by the House Foreign Affairs Committee. The Pentagon also provided the air transportation for Fraser, Findley and the other Foreign Affairs junketters.

While the Pentagon is always willing to provide transportation for congressional potentates, it becomes positively eager to drive them to visit the Pentagon.

Senator Margaret Chase Smith, R-Maine, the ranking Republican on the Armed Services Committee and a constant critic of government waste, has no qualms about being taxied back and forth to a Pentagon breakfast last December 2. The Senator wouldn't talk to us, but a spokesman said there was nothing wrong "inasmuch as the (Pentagon) invited her and provided the courtesy of sending a car."

Representative Melvin Price, D-Ill., the House Ethics chairman, had a somewhat different attitude, however. He was questioned about the time the Army sent two cars to the Rayburn House Office Building to transport him and two other congressmen to the Pentgaon for lunch. "You raise a good point," he told my associate Brit Hume, "but I just don't think the congressmen would be influenced by (free transportation)."

These are just a few examples of the routine chauffeur service that the Pentagon provides Capitol Hill bigwigs. The total amount of money wasted by the Pentagon Garage on the improper use of cars is probably beyond precise calculation. But it runs in the millions.

--SECRET EXODUS--

The Saigon command, in anticipation of a final Communist offensive, began shifting more than 300,000 South Vietnamese peasants from their refugee camps and hamlets to other parts of the war-torn country.

The official explanation was that it will provide refugees new homes away from the fighting. But there is strong evidence the peasants are being evacuated to create a "free-fire" zone of their former habitats for U. S. bombers.

Another concealed aim, apparently, is to move Viet Cong sympathizers out of the northern part of South Vietnam and into other sections where they can be kept under closer watch.

As evidence that the "resettlement" is not just for humanitarian purposes, American pacification officials have been given classified orders to hide the mass exodus.

In December, the secrecy edict went out to pacification bosses throughout Vietnam. It ordered them "to cease discussing, speculating or commenting publicly" on any aspects of the resettlement.

"It is imperative," said the classified order from pacification deputy Richard Funkhouser, that every pacification official be "well aware of this policy and follow it completely."

Another memo, bearing classification stamps on every page, relays a demand for secrecy from Saigon's Minister of State, Dr. Phan Quang Dan.

"Minister Dan fears that ill-advised publicity on these programs could cause enemy efforts designed to disrupt the resettlement, terrorize new arrivals and create embarrassment to the government of Vietnam," states the memo signed by Brig. Gen. James Herbert, a pacification bigwig.

The unusual hush-up by both the United States and Saigon has successfully hidden the exact extent of the enormous, compulsory migration.

However, Minister Dan himself confided recently to an American colleague that the land left behind by the refugees can swiftly be declared a "free-fire zone" where anything that moves can be shot, strafed or bombed.

We also have American memos showing that, instead of moving the refugees to safe spots in the south, as would be done if the move were for totally humanitarian reasons, many are being shifted to Viet Cong sections of the South almost as dangerous as the areas they left.

Footnote: Dr. Johannes Hoeber, senior AID refugee officer, denied the resttlement program was designed to create "free-fire zones" for U. S. bombers and allied troops.

Senate Clears Defender Bill

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — A bill calling for a partial Public Defender System cleared the Missouri Senate Tuesday, 23-4, and headed back to he House.

The Senate reversed its earlier position in trying to solve the problem of providing legal counsel for indigents accused of crimes.

Instead of paying court-appointed attorneys, as recommended early in the session, the Senate accepted a compromise measure which would provide full-time salaried public defenders in heavily populated circuits and selected smaller ones. Court-appointed attorneys would serve with pay on a case by - case basis in other parts of the state.

The system would apply, however, only to felony cases, Habeas Corpus and post-trial proceedings. Misdemeannors and juvenile cases are not covered.

Sen. Paul Bradshaw, RSpringfield, tried again to win Senate support for a full appointive system, but was defeated, 8-19. He did succeed, however, in getting an amendment adopted exempting Greene County from the Public Defender System.

Bradshaw warned that the $1.8 million ceiling on financing the new system would be exceeded before the end of the first year of operation.

The Missouri Supreme Court warned last fall it would no longer require lawyers to serve without — "reasonable pay" after Sept. 1, this year.

The Public Defender System is one of the legislative goals of Gov. Warren E. Hearnes this session.

The bill's sponsor, Sen. Maurice Schechter, predicted the House would accept the Senate bill in its present form.

The Senate also sent back to the House a bill to raise magistrate clerks' salaries statewide by $2,600 a year.

Passed and sent to the governor was a bill to require immunization of school children against Rubella (German) and Rubeola (common) measles, unless parents object on religious grounds. The immunization is directed against the diseases which are responsible for mental retardation.

Sen. Truman Wilson, D-St. Joseph, asked the House to reconsider its action attaching state regulation of Blue CrossBlue Shield health programs to his bill to let minor spouses collect up to $10,000 life insurance benefits without requiring probate action.

Another measure sent to the governor would authorize the state Division of Insurance to fine unlicensed companies doing business in the state up to $5,000.

Returned to the House with minor amendments was a bill to create a Missouri Bicentennial Commission to promote the 200th anniversary of the nation.

Campus Antiwar Protests Erupt

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Campus antiwar protests rekindled by the U.S. bombing of North Vietnam have erupted into violence at Harvard and led to scattered confrontations with police at the University of Maryland.

Demonstrations elsewhere Tuesday were generally peaceful and some drew little response but the reawakening antiwar movement called for student strikes on Friday.

At Harvard about 30 demonstrators split off from a peace march in Cambridge, Mass., to stage a 10-minute assault on the university's prestigous Center for International Affairs.

Police fired at least 15 rounds of tear gas over a two-hour period to disperse a crowd of 1,500 to 2,000 demonstrators who gathered outside the building. Three persons were arrested.

The center, where presidential adviser Henry A. Kissinger formerly had an office, was littered with broken glass and overturned furniture. Slogans such as "Avenge Hanoi" and "NLF Wins" were sprayed on the walls.

A fire set with papers was confined to a second floor office.

The march began with a 4 p.m. rally on Boston Common where President Nixon was burned in effigy. Later the demonstrators marched five miles to Harvard Square in Cambridge where they broke windows in a few stores and a post office before going to the center.

Day-long demonstrations at the University of Maryland resulted in the arrest of 14 persons on charges of assault and carrying deadly weapons— rocks.

Windows were broken in an ROTC building during a rally and later about 500 students blocked U.S. Route 1 for an hour. About 100 riot-equipped state policemen used tear gas and dogs to break up the demonstration.

Police said one lieutenant suffered a broken elbow and several others received minor injuries in the clash. Two tudents were reported injured.

About 1,000 students at Columbia University and Barnard College voted Tuesday night to go on strike starting today but said they would not try to bar others from classes.

Columbia President William McGill appeared before a strike meeting to argue against "coercing others who disagree with you. Coercing others is a violation of people's rights, and we will not tolerate it," he said.

McGill said the Ivy League presidents would hold a telephone conference today to discuss the call for a nationwide campus strike on Friday.

U.S. Shuns Red Talk Offer

PARIS (AP) — The U.S. delegation to the stailsji,ietnam peace talks said today that North Vietnam's proposal to resume the conference offers n3afg$ng in exchange for its demands.

The delegation spokesman, Stephen Ledogar, was commenting in answer to questions on conditions laid down two days ago by the North Vietnamese minister of state, Xuan Thuy, for resumption of the conference.

Thuy said the United States must simultaneously agree to return to regular weekly sessions of the conference and halt air attacks on North Vietnam. Then Politburo member Le Duc Tho would return to Paris and there would be a possibility of secret talks.

The United States indefinitely suspended the peace talks March 23 and said it would be willing to resume them if the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong showed they were prepared to "negotiate seriously."

Both Sides Blamed For Bloody Sunday

LONDON (AP) — Britain's top judge rapped Roman Catholic marchers and British troops alike today for the Bloody Sunday shooting that killed 13 civilians in Londonderry in January.

Appointed by Prime Minister Edward Heath's government to investigate the charges that British paratroopers fired indiscriminately into a crowd of unarmed civilians, Lord Chief Justice Widgery reported that the troops were fired on first but none of the Catholics killed or wounded "is proved to have been shot whilst handling a firearm or bomb."

However, he reported a "strong suspicion that some others had been firing weapons or handling bombs in the course of the afternoon and that yet others had been closely supporting them."

Widgery said the first shot came from a lone sniper using a high velocity weapon. He said some of the soldiers "showed a high degree of responsibility" but the firing by others "bordered on the reckless."

Apportioning blame equally, he commented:

"There would have been no deaths in Londonderry on 30 January if those who organized the illegal march had not thereby created a highly dangerous situation in which a clash between demonstrators and the security forces was almost inevitable," the jurist declared.

"If the army had persisted in its 'low key' attitude and had not launched a large-scale operation to arrest hooligans, the day might have passed off without serious incident."

London newspapers reported earlier today that Widgery's report cleared the army and blamed the guerrillas of the Irish Republican Army.

The killings Jan. 30 enraged Northern Ireland's Roman Catholics and did more than any other single event to cause the British government to take over direct rule of the province, suspending the Protestant provincial government.

Ann Landers

Pregnant Woman Doesn't Appreciate Unkind Words

Dear Ann Landers: I've never read a letter like this in your column. It's time I did. A lot of people need educating.

I am going into my sixth month of pregnancy. I am still working and intend to continue to work for another two months if I can hold out that long. I need the money.

This advice is for the people I work with: I do not need to be told how pale and tired I look. I feel like a dishrag and I know I look like one.

I don't need to be told that I wear my wig a lot and that my own hair, when it is fixed, looks much better. It's easy to wear a wig and it's hard to wash my hair and set it at night after work.

I don't need to hear any more cute remarks such as, "If you've got three months to go, you'll never fit into the elevator." I have listened good naturedly and repeatedly to all the hollow and crude jokes about pregnant women. They weren't very funny the first time.

I don't need to be asked how we can afford a baby and how come I got pregnant so soon. We didn't plan it this way, but we are glad now and it doesn't help much when people put such questions to me. Print this, please --- What's Up Front Counts A Lot.

Dear What's Up: Keep your sense of humor, Petunia. It will see you through when everything else goes belly up --- if you will pardon the expression.

Dear Ann Landers: Sometimes your advice is so dumb I can't believe it. I am only 15 and I know better than you about some things. For example: You told a teen-ager to get her ears pierced by a doctor and not by a girlfriend because "some people are allergic to certain metals and the ears could become infected." So -- if you are allergic to certain metals, your ears will become infected even if a doctor does the piercing.

I know because a doctor pierced my ears and I got a terrific infection. Two of my girlfriends pierced their own ears and they had no trouble at all. Get it? --- Your Critic in Oakland

Dear Critic: Right you are. A doctor can't prevent an infection caused by an allergy but how lucky for you that a doctor did the piercing. When your ears became infected you probably went to him immediately. Had your girlfriend done the piercing you might have delayed, thinking it was "normal" and would clear up by itself.

I repeat. Ear piercing should be a medical procedure, not a do-it-yourself project.

Dear Ann Landers: I just read the letter from the woman who signed herself "Chump." It seems her husband is happiest when they are entertaining but she was fed up with wining and dining people who never asked them back. You told her if her husband wants her to entertain that's reason enough to do it. You blithely ignored her complaint that when she asks him to take her out to dinner or to the theater and he finds out no one has been invited to join them, he says, "Skip it."

Tell me, please, why a wife should play Perle Mesta to an ingrate like that? Perle at least has a staff of servants to do the work. Or she can hire a catering service. And I'll bet Perle doesn't have to borrow bridge chairs and silverware from next door, and then clean up the mess the next morning.

Your answer wasn't very sensible. I say if a husband is that inconsiderate, let him stew in his own juice. --- Nobody's Fool

Dear No: Let him stew in his own juice, eh? Then what will you have besides a stewed husband? Sorry, I'm not about to tell a woman who is making an extra effort to please her husband to stop doing it.

There is a big difference between cold and cool. Ann Landers shows you how to play it cool without freezing people out in her booklet "Teen-Age Sex -- Ten Ways To Coll It." Send 50 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to this newspaper.

Coffee Corner by Cherie

One of these days I'm going to give up cooking and take up tennis. All my friends are out on the courts getting slim and beautiful for the summer on salads and exercise, and I'm home getting fatter and uglier on whip cream and (well I do think running up and down a pair of steps forty times a day should be considered exercise, but unfortunately it seems to be building up instead of taking down). I use to play tennis when I was young and carefree and had time on my hands to do something besides cart kids around or wash clothes; but again, the ensuing years did bring about certain changes in my day to day schedule — I believe you could call it less hours with no fringe benefits. It wouldn't do any good though, I'd probably be so tired getting all my work done so I could go out and play with a free conscience that by the time I'd swatted the ball three times I'd keel over with a coronary! Also, I cook like a lobster in the summer sun and if there's one thing worse than a sunburned broad it's a broad sunburned broad and brother would that ever be me!

If you really want to know the truth of the matter, I can't stand the thought of me bulging out all over in one of those cute little tennis outfits while all the other ladies fit in their's so nicely. Ugh, I need to be young again — and if that ole stinky Charles who's lost twenty pounds says to me one more time, "must be jelly cause jam don't shake like that," I'm going to double up my fist and flatten his flat stomach still flatter!!!

Not Very Agile

Fat people often die from diseases of the heart, arteries or kidneys, but more die from accidents, probably because they are less agile than thin people, according to Encyclopaedia Britannica.

What's The Law

Dope Can Dissolve New Marriage

By Jack Strauss, LL. B.

After a whirlwind courtship of only one month, Betty and Freddy got married. Unfortunatley, the marriage went to pot, literally, just as quickly. Betty discovered that Freddy's state of perpetual happiness was due to marijuana and hard drugs and not to marital bliss. Consequently, she started suit to annul the marrige on the grounds of fraud.

"She's not entitled to annulment," protested Freddy in court. "Fraud is when you trick someone into believing something that's not true. Since I have never lied to Betty about anything and I love her, she's got to stay my wife.

"Not on your life," was Betty's answer. "When I go to bed, it's not with a husband, it's with a laughing hyena. And, while it's true that he never lied to me, I never would have married him had I known he was a hophead. Not telling me was just as deceptive as if he had lied to me and, consequently, I'm entitled to my annulment."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you annul the whirlwind marriage?

This is how the judge ruled: YES! The judge held that fraud can be based upon either an affirmative representative or the with-holding of the truth when it should be disclosed. And, in the case of marriage, noted the judge, a prospective spouse has an obligation to disclose any physical or mental condition or behavior that would impair the carrying out or fulfillment of the marital relationship. (Based upon a 1971 New Jersey Superior Court Decision)

Study Indicates Child Poisoning Often Suicidal

LOS ANGELES (AP) -- An analysis of 1,100 cases of child poisoning indicates that almost 75 per cent were intentional and that more than one- fourth of the poisonings were attempts at suicide, according to a psychiatrist at the University of Southern California School of Medicine.

Dr. Robert Litman, also a co- director of the Los Angeles Suicide Prevention Center, told a meeting of the Children's Bureau of Los Angeles Thursday that "it is estimated that there are more than 100,000 self- poisonings each year in this country involving children between 6 and 17."

Suicidal feelings are triggered in children by a sense of abandonment or desertion by parents, Litman said. Death to youngsters is a vague, symbolic state that appears to promise reunion with father or mother, he added.

Motorists Turn Back On Boy Hailed As Hero

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — Three months ago, the adult world hailed 13-year-old John Renfrow as a hero.

Young Renfrow and a companion were playing in a local park when they spotted a 3year-old boy who had fallen through the ice in a nearby lagoon. They pulled him from the water.

Sunday, John stood along Interstate 80 in western Iowa, waving frantically in an effort to stop passing cars. A few feet away, his father worked in vain to save his mother's life.

"I had the car's four-way flashers on. John was crying and waving his arms. I was giving my wife artificial respiration on the shoulder of the road. Anyone could see it wasn't a setup (for a robbery)" Mr. Renfrow said.

The family was returning from a visit to relatives in Perry, Iowa, Sunday when Mrs. Renfrow, who had undergone four operations in the last two years, including removal of both kidneys, "quivered and slumped forward" in her seat, her husband said.

"A heart attack was mentioned at the scene," Renfrow, an Offutt Air Base bus driver, said.

After several minutes, Renfrow reported, a car stopped. "The man drove in to get a rescue squad but it was too late," Renfrow said.

Perhaps, Mrs. Renfrow was already dead so the minutes didn't make any difference, Renfrow said. She was pronounced dead when a physician and the Adair Volunteer Fire Department rescue squad arrived.

Renfrow said he didn't know how cars passed by, but both lanes were crowded, "it seemed like bumper to bumper."

"People passed us by like we were weeds," Renfrow said.

Summer Welcome For M.U. Frosh

COLUMBIA, Mo. -- Students planning to enter the University of Missouri next fall will get a head start again this summer when "Summer Welcome '72" gets underway June 18.

The program consists of 15 two- day sessions in which incoming freshmen are oriented to the university as well as allowed to beat the fall rush to register for classes.

Of last year's program, "Summer Welcome '71," students said: "If anything can help a petrified freshman at UMC, it is this extremely helpful program."

And: "This program is really worth the time and money any student puts in it. I now feel much more confident about coming down for the first few weeks of college life."

"Summer Welcome '72" uses the talents of a large group of carefully selected and specially trained student leaders who can answer the prospective students' questions.

To accommodate all students and parents, 15 two-day sessions are scheduled from June 18- July 14. Students, along with their parents, actually live in UMC dormitories during the sessions.

While students enrolling in larger academic divisions -- such as arts and science, agriculture, education and engineering -- may enroll in any session, others must attend one of several special sessions.

Session numbers and dates are: 1. June 18-19; 2. June 19-20; 3. June 21-22; 4. June 22-23; 5. June 25-26; 6. June 26-27; 7. June 28-29; 8. June 29-30; 9. July 2-3; 10. July 5-6; 11.July 6-7; 12. July 9-10; 13. July 1--11; 14. July 12-13; 15. July 13-14.

Forestry students may attend sessions 2, 5 and 10; home economics, 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, and 8; Nursing 2, 4, 6; parks and recreation, 13. Arts and science students, which includes pre- business and public administration, pre-journalism, pre- law and pre-medicine, may attend any session.

Only students planning to attend UMC are eligible. This means the prospective student must have completed all admission requirements and have been admitted to UMC.

Book Review

SOUTH OF THE ANGELS
by Jessamyn West
(Avon W316/$1.25
608 pp.)

The untamed land that lures many people today, encouraging them to find satisfaction in working with their hands, is depicted in an earlier era in Jessamyn West's SOUTH OF THE ANGELS.

SOUTH OF THE ANGELS is the fertile, promising tract of land south of Los Angeles that calls forth the adventurous and the enterprising. In the early 1900's this virgin land is opened for development and a host of men, women and children from many parts of the nation begin the trek west to establish a new life that has meaning apart from false values and dehumanizing pressures of civilization.

The many threads of Jessamyn West's tapestry reveal not just America's early pioneers, but the eternal human spirit.

With SOUTH OF THE ANGESLS, Jessamyn West's books -- among them EXCEPT FOR ME AND THEE, THE FRIENDLY PERSUASION nd four other Avon releases -- otal over 1,500,000 copies in Avon print.

"There are moments here of such clear insight and such compressed and brilliant expression as make the reader catch his breath in wonder."

--Elizabeth Janeway in The New York Times

COMPOSITION FOR FOUR HANDS
by Hilda Lawrence
(Avon V2427/75c
160 pp.)

COMPOSITION FOR FOUR HANDS is Hilda Lawrence's acclaimed mystery that begins with a beautiful woman's complete paralysis from the shock of finding her son an apparent suicide. Surrounded by her loving husband, relatives and nurses, she gets the finest care that great wealth can provide. But she lives in mortal terror, as she is next on the killer's list. One night, as she lies immobile in bed, she sees four grisly hands writhing at her bedside, trying to frighten her to death.

The New York Times called COMPOSITION FOR FOUR HANDS "A Grade-A shocker. It will inspire hair- raising fear in a genteel, immensely effective way!"

The Prayer from The Upper Room

I may dole out all I possess..., but if I have no love, I am none better. -- I Corinthians 13:3.

PRAYER: We thank Thee, our Father, for reconciliation which causes walls to give way to concern, understanding, and good will. Alert our hearts to the tragedy of those who have never been saved from scarcely anything to something much better. In Christ's name we pray. Amen.

Crismon Appeal Denies

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The U.S. 8th Circuit Court of Appeals has denied an appeal by former Bonne Terre, Mo., banker James B. Crismon on a fraud conviction.

Crismon had been free on bond since Aug. 13, 1971, pending appeal of his conviction in the court of U.S. District Judge John K. Regan.

Regan sentenced Crismon to 10 years in prison on July 16, 1971, on eight counts of fraud and fined him $5,000.

Crismon's appeal was denied Monday.

The indictments charged Crismon, former president of the First State Bank of Bonne Terre, with defrauding the bank of $277,000. Crismon was found guilty of obtaining loans from the bank on false collateral and approving loans for his son without approval of the bank's board.

The Bonne Terre bank was closed by the state of Missouri in August, 1970, for bad loans. It has reopened under new management.

U.S. Atty. Daniel Bartlett Jr., of St. Louis said Crismon was arrested about 9 p.m. Monday at his Bonne Terre home.

Crismon will be returned to St. Louis and probably will be taken to the Federal penitentiary at Terre Haute, Ind., to begin serving his prison term, Bartlett said.

Senate Roll Call On Gas Tax Increase

Against—Blackwell, Cox, Keating, Lee, Linehan, Noland, Payne, Pentland. Total 8.

Court Upholds Loyalty Oath

WASHINGTON (AP) — Led by Chief Justice Warren E. Burger, the Supreme Court today upheld a loyalty oath in Massachusetts that requires all public employes to pledge they will oppose the overthrow of the government by force or violence.

State employes must take the oath or face discharge from their jobs.

Delivering the 4-3 decision, Burger said the oath does not violate First Amendment freedoms since it is no more than a commitment not to use illegal force to change the system.

The three dissenters, Justices William O. Douglas, William J. Brennan Jr., and Thurgood Marshall, protested that the oath flatly violates the freespeech guarantees.

But Burger was able to swing a majority by persuading Justices Potter Stewart and Byron R. White, to join him and Justice Harry A. Blackmun. The two later Nixon administration appointees, William H. Rehnquist and Lewis F. Powell Jr., could not participate because they joined the court two months after the case was argued.

Two years ago a U.S. District Court in Massachusetts found the oath invalid. Chief Judge Bailey Aldrich of the U.S. Circuit Court in Boston said the phrase in which the oath-taker swears or affirms that he will not "oppose the overthrow" of the government was "fatally vague and unspecific."

Appeal Refusal Helps Spotlight Jail Conditions

ST. LOUIS (AP) — A St. Louis attorney says Monday's refusal of the U.S. Supreme Court to hear an appeal in a case involving alleged homosexual rape in a Missouri prison helped to focus national attention on the situation in American jails.

The nation's high court voted eight to one against consideration of the appeal of John Charles Green, a former inmate at the Missouri Training Center for Men in Moberly. His suit had been halded by the American Civil Liberties Union, which asked the court to set up a "bill of rights" for prisoners.

GOP Blames Russia For Continuing War

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican senators blamed the Soviet Union today for the continuing war in Vietnam and the new North Vietnamese offensive.

"The Soviet Union is the principal culprit in this war," said Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., in calling for Senate support of President Nixon's ordering retaliatory air raids.

Sen. Gordon Allott, R-Colo., said the people responsible for delivering tanks and fuel to North Vietnam "are the reckless rulers in the Kremlin."

Goldwater said he will introduce a Senate resolution of support for the President.

He called for the continued bombing of Haiphong, principal North Vietnamese harbor.

The debate was arranged by Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., who called for Nixon to get out of Vietnam or get out of office. Twenty-two senators were scheduled to speak.

Bill Advances For Stronger Auto Bumpers

WASHINGTON (AP) — A bill to set standards for stronger auto bumpers and thus save consumers billions of dollars in accident repairs was approved Tuesday by the House Commerce Committee.

By voice vote, the committee, which had rejected an earlier version 20 to 18, accepted a revamped bill draft by a subcommittee. The legislation contains front-and rear-bumper standards authority under which the Transportation Department would set requirements to protect external sheet metal in low-speed crashes.

No specific figure is designated in the bill, although backers said they envision protection at 5 miles per hour.

Steele Prison Stands Off Blackwell Attack

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The proposed maximum security prison at Steele, Mo., withstood an assault in the Missouri Senate Tuesday led by Sen. Earl R. Blackwell, D-Hillsboro.

Blackwell tried to amend a routine appropriations bill by striking $500,000 for site preparation at the bootheel area location in Southeast Missouri and effectively halt the project estimated to cost about $11 million when completed.

On a roll call vote, the Senate rejected the amendment 14-19.

Blackwell said he was not contesting the site of the facility, but the need for such a facility. He said, "It simply is not going to work and we will have spent $11 million for nothing."

The maximum security prison was advocated by former State Corrections Director Fred T. Wilkinson, who resigned earlier this year. Wilkinson said hard-core, incorrigible prisoners who refuse to cooperate with any attempts to rehabilitate them undermine the rehabilitation programs for other prisoners who will respond.

Wilkinson proposed a separate facility to confine up to 350 prisoners.

"Students feel free to bring their problems to him for they know they will receive sound, practical advice.

"His knowledge and understanding of chemistry and a love for teaching, coupled with an innate ability to appeal to students, make him an ideal teacher."

In Dean Bloomfield's memory, a memorial has been established through the University Development Fund which will direct gifts to the agricultural chemistry department. Its use will be determined by an advisory committee composed of Chancellor Herbert W. Schooling, Agriculture Dean Elmer Kiehl, and Professors John R. Campbell and Franklin D. Harris.

Apollo Speeds Toward Orbit Of The Moon

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — The Apollo 16 astronauts, firmly in the grip of lunar gravity, snapped pictures of their cratered target today and sped on toward an afternoon orbit of the moon.

The problems of flaking paint, a locked guidance system, plumbing troubles, a balking dock latch and a faulty radio antenna were behind them and their spaceship was running smoothly.

John W. Young, Charles M. Duke Jr. and Thomas K. Mattingly II awoke an hour early today to begin their own countdown for the engine-firing that would thrust them into orbit to start six days of scientific adventure in the vicinity of the moon.

In midmorning, about 17,900 miles f om that alien world, Mattingly used a camera equipped with special film and filters to take pictures of the moon.

They were not ordinary tourist snapshots, but scientific photos to obtain information on the lunar atmosphere and radiation emitted from the surface.

The moon took gravitational control of Apollo 16 at 12:07 a.m. when the astronauts passed through a so-called "twilight zone" in which the gravitational influence of the earth and moon is equal.

Goldwater said his resolution will be cosponsored by at least 13 other senators. It would condemn the invasion of South Vietnam by North Vietnam, call for the end of North Vietnamese aggression, and support U.S. government policy in seeking "an honorable peace in South Vietnam."

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, DMass., declared $o' unlimited air war over Indochina "can only add heavily, and needlessly to the horrendous human toll that already exists."

"Our national interest does not lie in the continuation of the war," he said. "It does not lie in the further destruction of the countryside in Vietnam, North or South, or Laos or Cambodia.

Venus Seen At Moon Trip

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP) — The North American Air Defense Command says that a bright light seen above the moon Sunday night posed no threat—it was the planet Venus.

"We've gotten calls from people saying they'd seen antennas on it," a NORAD spokesman said. "It's not so and it's nothing to worry about."

The bright planet was seen by persons in several different parts of the country during the evening hours. In Arizona, some telephone callers feared the moon was breaking up or that an object was about to strike the moon. Others said they thought it was the Apollo 16 spacecraft.

SHS Diamond Crew Prepares For Rematch

Coach N. P. McDaniels' baseball team is improving with each game. The Bulldogs made costly errors and fell behind 4-0 after the first two innings but fought back to gain a 5-4 decision over the Jackson Indians Tuesday to extend their baseball record to 4-1 for the season.

"I was pleased that we bounced back after being behind by four runs," said Coach McDaniel. "We started playing some good ball with timely hitting," he continued. "Relief pitcher Mitch Walker did a good job."

Jackson got to Bulldog pitchers, Eddie McDowell and Walker for five hits. The bulldogs collected six hits off Bazzell, who took the loss for the Indians.

Jackson took a 1-0 lead in the first inning and crossed the plate three more times in the second when the Bulldogs' defense came apart. Walker relieved McDowell in the second and shut out the Indians the rest of the way.

Sikeston came alive in the third and scored two runs to get back in the game. The Bulldogs charged at the Indians in the fourth and plated three runs to take the lead.

The Bulldogs have reeled off four straight wins after taking a 10-1 licking from the Cape Girardeau Central Tigers.

Sikeston will seek revenge against the Tigers at Cape Girardeau Friday afternoon.

"It should be a better ball game," said Coach McDaniel. "We didn't have good pitching then."

The Bulldog coach was undecided about his starter.

Cardinals Blow Lead

PHIladelphia (AP) - Billy Champion came up to the big leagues in 1969, a big, confident kid who felt he could throw his fastball by any hitter alive.

Unfortunately for Champion, the Phillies' staff didn't agree. They didn't think he could threw his fastball through a pane of glass.

So, Champion, a three quarter overhand pitcher was told to throw sidearm, almost submarine. He was instructed to develop a sinker and forget the fastball that had made him a major league prospect, a No. 3 pick in the June, 1965 draft.

Champion didn't agree with the change.

"But who was I to tell them it was right or wrong," Champion said last night after beating the St. Louis Cardinals with a guess what-fastball. "Here I was my first year in late that leagues. For the moment I thought it was best."

Well, it wasn't best as later events proved. Champion couldn't win as a sidearm sinker ball pitcher. He bounced between the Phillies' farm team at Eugene, Ore. and the parent club.

When Frank Lucchesi took over as Phillies manager, he decided that Champion should go back to his natural style. It wasn't that easy. It took almost two years for the 6-foot-4 right-handed to revert to himself on the mound.

He began to come along late that season.

Tuesday night Champion pitched 8 2-3 strong innings in a 6-3 victory over the Cardinals. He gave up only seven hits, walked three and struckout seven. Only two of the three runs were earned.

"Mainly he challenged the hitters with his fastball," said Phillies' pitching coach Rip Rippelmeyer. "I know he was told by some people that he didn't throw hard enough. But there is no doubt in my mind that he has a major league fastball."

St. Louis took a 2-0 lead after three innings. Joe Hague's double and a two out single by rookie Ed Crosby scored a run in the second off Champion. A single and two walks loaded the bases in the third and another run scored on the passed ball.

Lakers Take Lead

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Now Bill Sharman is talking about a six-game series as his Los Angeles Lakers have the defending champion Milwaukee Bucks on the ropes in the National Basketball Association playoffs.

The Lakers ran away from the Bucks 115-90 Tuesday night by rebounding—literally—from the 114-88 beating suffered Sunday in Milwaukee.

The best-of-seven Western Conference series moves back to Milwaukee Saturday with the Lakers leading 3-2.

"I've said all along that rebounding will decide the series," said Sharman in a hoarse voice after Wilt Chamberlain & Co. grabbed 23 more missed shots than Kareem Abdul-Jabbar and the Bucks, 7057. "And if we can outrebound them Saturday, we can end the series in six games."

Game No. 7, if the Bucks win Saturday, will be played next Wednesday night in the Forum, where there would be another sellout crowd of 17,505.

The partisan fans chanted "defense, defense" and "rebound, rebound"—apparently taking Sharman's cue. The coach had called for more vociferous support on the plane ride back from Milwaukee Sunday.

"It is easier to get up for this game than on Sunday," said Chamberlain, who made all eight of his free throws, a remarkable achievement for the 7-foot-2 veteran considered one of the league's worst free throwers. He finished with 26 rebounds and 12 points.

In all, the Lakers converted 35 of 44 free throws, including 19 of 22 in the third period when they broke things open. It was 55-51 Lakers early in the third period but Gail Goodrich led the spurt to a 23-point lead with a 13-point quarter.

The Celtics lost the opener at home 116-94, then dropped No. 2 106-105 at Madison Square Garden.

Owens Master Of No-Hitter

BERNIE — Chuck Owens fired the second no-hitter in Southeast Missouri high school baseball season. The smoke throwing righthander handcuffed the Bloomfield Wildcats, 11-1 Tuesday.

The only run the Wildcats could muster came on an error by the Mules' defense. It spoiled the shutout. Owens struck out 12 and walked three.

Owens has teamed with Dell Walker, a lefthander, to allow only one earned run in 32 innings of pitching this season. The Mules have scored 40 runs while giving up eight in six game.

Bloomfield was never in the game. The Wildcats committed five errors. Losing pitcher Baldwin gave up seven hits.

Bernie took a 1-0 lead in the first inning. That turned out to be all it needed to record its fifth win against no losses. The Mules crossed the plate again in the second and hit the jackpot in the fourth, scoring eight runs. The Mules added their final run in the fifth.

David Baker and Don Daugherty contributed doubles for Bernie with Derrell Carson getting a three-bagger for the Mules.

RISCO — The Lilbourn Panthers shut out the Tigers behind the three-hit pitching of Mitchell Allen 5-0 in a Tri-County league baseball game Tuesday.

The Panthers put seven hits together with a couple of errors to score five runs. Risco was never able to score against Allen.

Neither team could do much until the third when the Panthers put a hit together with two costly miscues to score two runs and take the lead.

Patterson, who was the losing pitcher,, shut the Panthers out from the third until the seventh when Lilbourn put two hits together to score its final three runs.

Centerfielder Pat McClarty and Allen got the runs batted in.

Rightfielder John Taylor had a double for the Panthers and the game's only extra base hit. The Panthers are 2-1 for the year and 1-1 in conference play.

Gideon is 2-0 in conference play and is atop the standings.

Dewayne Nowlin struck out 14 and passed only two in gaining the win. The only run Campbell scored was unearned. Carter started on the mound for Campbell and took the loss.

Gideon took a 2-0 lead in the second inning and added three more runs in the fifth. The Camel's lone run came in the seventh.

Joe Murphy smashed a home run in the second to get the scoring started for Gideon. Donald Berry drove in two runs for the Bulldogs.

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Cosmos today appointed John Young, a native of Scotland, to the post of assistant to Coach Gordon Bradley. Young played halfback with the Cosmos last season during their initial North American Soccer League campaign.

Clive Toye, general manager and vice president of the Cosmos, also announced the signing of Jorge Siega, the Brazilian-born forward who last year was voted the team's Most Valuable Player by the Soccer Writers and Broadcasters Association.

McLain Sharp

OAKLAND (AP) — Everyone was worried about Denny McLain except Denny McLain.

He made his debut a successful one Tuesday night as the Oakland Athletics defeated the Kansas City Royals 3-2 with the aid of home runs by Mike Epstein and Dave Duncan.

McLain, obtained in a trade with the Texas Rangers, pitched poorly in all three spring training appearances, including one in which he gave up 10 runs.

Against the Royals he allowed eight hits but no earned runs in the little more than seven innings he pitched. He threw only 88 pitches.

"I've always been a terrible spring training pitcher," McLain said.

McLain was happiest about his control. He walked none and struck out two. "Usually I can't get the ball over the plate until about May 1," he said.

He admitted he can't throw as hard as he did in 1968 when he won 31 games for Detroit.

Manager Dick Williams of the A's also was pleased with McLain's first effort.

"He was better than I expected," Williams said.

Duncan's homer, his second of the season, broke a 2-2 tie in the seventh inning and handed the defeat to Mike Hedlund. Hedlund also gave up the homer to Epstein. The other Oakland run came on a balk.

Kansas City scored both its runs on a single by Bobby Floyd following an error and a double by Jerry May.

The defeat was the first in four games for Kansas City. Oakland has won two out of three.

The teams conclude the series tonight with a twinight doubleheader.

Giants Lose McCovey

BERNIE'S RANDY PALMER slides into third base safe during baseball action at Matthews Monday afternoon. The Pirates' third baseman is David Lape. Bernie won, 10-0.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The ball skipped off John Jeter's bat toward shortstop Chris Speier. It looked like a certain double play for the San Francisco Giants.

Speier scooped the grounder and pitched to Tito Fuentes, who stepped on second for one out and fired to first. Right after he let the ball go, the second basemen wished he hadn't. It cost the Giants their star first baseman, Willie McCovey.

McCovey, diving forward trying to snare Fuentes' wiid toss, broke his right arm in a collision with Jeter and was knocked out long before the Giants won a 5-1 baseball game over the San Diego Padres Tuesday night.

There's no way we can replace a Willie McCovey," said San Francisco Manager Charlie Fox. "But there's no use crying over spilled milk. Injuries are part of the game."

A doctor estimated that it would take six weeks for the fracture to heal and surmised it could be at least two months before the slugger returned to the lineup.

In the other games Tuesday, the Chicago Cubs beat the Pittsburgh Pirates 6-4; the Houston Astros topped the Cincinnati Reds 8-4; the Los Angeles Dodgers trimmed the Atlanta Braves 3-1; the Philadelphia Phillies turned back the St. Louis Cardinals 6-3 and the Montreal Expos pounded the New York Mets 7-2.

The Giant dressing room was subdued after victory because the players obviously felt it was much too costly.

McCovey, 34, was the National League's Most Valuable Player in 1969 when he hit a career-high of 45 home runs. The strapping lefthander was limited to 18 home runs last year because of a knee injury that kept him out more than one-third of the season. He returned toward the end of the year to help the Giants win the West Division title.

San Francisco got home run power from Bobby Bonds and Fran Healy to beat the Padres. Bonds delivered a two-run blast and Healy drilled a three-run shot.

Billy Williams unloaded a three-run homer and Jose Cardenal smashed a two-run job to pull Chicago over Pittsburgh and spoil the Pirates' home opener before a near-capacity crowd of 47,489.

Tommy Helms and John Edwards, a couple of ex-Reds, and Doug Rader, Houston's young redhead, helped the Astros top Cincinnati. Helms and Edwards each knocked in two runs and Rader snapped a 4-4 tie with a sixth-inning homer.

Helms hit a two-run homer off Don Gullett, who was his teammate just last year.

Jim Lefebvre rapped a tworun single and Chris Cannizzaro hit a solo home run as Los Angeles beat Atlanta

Wood Gets Backing

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Pensions are one thing, but if the major league baseball players ever strike for a shorter work week, Wilbur Wood is in big trouble.

Chicago's veteran knuckleball artist thrives on action and proved it Tuesday night when he shut out Texas 14-0 on a three-hitter. The complete game came just two days after Wood had hurled 8 2-3 innings for no decision in Chicago's post-strike opener.

A normal rest span for a pitcher is three days between starts and many need four days off to recover from the strain of nine innings work. Four days off would be like a summer vacation for Wood.

In other American League action Tuesday, New York blanked Milwaukee 2-0, Boston downed Cleveland 4-2, Detroit topped Baltimore 5-3, Oakland trimmed Kansas City 3-2 and California blanked Minnesota 20.

Wood is used to plenty of pitching. He worked 334 innings last year when he won 22 games for the Sox. Wilbur is able to pitch more frequently than other hurlers simply because the knuckler puts very little strain on his arm.

His two starts in four days were complete opposites for Wood. The Sox couldn't score for him on Saturday but busted loose Tuesday with a 15-hit attack that included a homer, two singles, a double and six runs batted in for Carlos May.

Steve Kline's three-hitter gave the Yankees their first victory with Horace Clarke's three hits leading New York past Milwaukee.

Clarke drove in the first Yankee run with a third inning single and Johnny Callison's sacrifice fly delivered the other in the fourth.

Jeff Jackson Does It All

ORAN — Sophomore Jeff Johnson supplied about everything the Kelly Hawks needed to down the Eagles Tuesday, 4-1 in a Scott-Miss league baseball game.

Jackson fired a two hitter, smashed a triple to go along with his four for four at bat and batted in three of the four runs the Hawks scored.

The loss was the first for the Eagles to go with four wins. Oran is 3-1 in league play after the setback. The Hawks are 3-2 with all their games in league play. Jackson has won all three.

Oran took a 1-0 lead in the first inning but starter and loser Rick Irwin was unable to hold the Hawks in the third. Kelly crossed the plate twice to take a 2-1 lead. Jackson knocked in two of his three runs batted in fourth with a single. Kelly scored the final two runs.

Kelly takes on Notre Dame in a non-league game Wednesday afternoon.

Hayti Displays Hitting Power

SENATH — The Hayti Indians outslugged the Lions 15-8 in a baseball game Tuesday.

Randy Gardener relieved Verdia Kuykendall in the third inning and picked up the win for Hayti. Greg Gillette was the losing pitcher.

Parker Morgan smacked a home run for Hayti and Greg Gilette had a round tripper for Senath-Hornersville. Gillette batted in three runs and Morgan had three runs batted in for Senath.

Hayti belted out 11 hits. The Lions collected six in getting eight runs.

Both teams crossed the place five times in the second inning. Senath added two more in the third to lead 7-5. Hayti battled back to tie the score in the fourth but Senath regained the lead in the frame, 8-7.

The rest of the game belonged to Hayti. Senath pitching gave way to the hitting of the Indians. Hayti scored three runs in each of the fifth and sixth innings and added two more in the seventh.

Malden Buys Generator For Plant

MALDEN — Authorization to purchase a new generator for the Malden Municipal Power Plant and to erect a new building to house it was given Monday night to the Board of Public Works by the Malden City Council.

The duel fuel electric power generating unit and accessories will be purchased from Colt Industries, Inc., of Delaware (Fairbanks Morse Power Systems Division.) It will produce an additional 2840 kilowatts and will provide the Municipal Power Plant with a capacity of 9500 kilowatts.

Cost of the unit with accessories and installed is $394,943. Ray J. Moreau, chairman of the Board of Public Works, says that a down payment of $19,747 will be made and the balance retired over 8½ years at an interest rate of 6¼%. He said that after the unit is installed that the citizens of Malden will have an opportunity to vote a revenue bond to underwrite the cost and which will lower the interest rate by three- fourths to one per cent.

Moreau says that malden purchases additional electrical power from Missouri Utilities Company at a rate based on the highest peak load of the year. He said that the new generating unit will be paid for from savings from a lower demand rate charge. Moreau said that no taxes are involved in this transaction and that no consumer rate increase is anticipated.

"Our prime concern is to assure continuity of electrical service to the residents of Malden," he said.

Storm Warning System Developed

MALDEN — Six- county area mayors, law enforcement officials, civil defense personnel, radio station owners and managers recently attended a meeting at the Bootheel Regional Commission's office to develop an "Early Storm Warning System" for the Bootheel.

The 38 officials attending agreed that a central reporting system could be established, but the most difficult problem would be finding an effective alerting system. An alerting process to inform citizens of an approaching tornado during the late night hours and early morning still plague the concerned citizens.

Bill Wellborn, Research Analyst of the bootheel Regional Planning Commission, said, "Each year tornados pose the greatest potential danger to life and property in the Bootheel. To meet this perennial threat, we invited H. W. Waldheuser, Meterologist with the U.S. National Weather Service, Lambert Field, St. Louis, to assist us in developing a storm warning system."

Waldheuser expressed the desires of the U. S. National Weather Service, to assist in alerting storm plagued Bootheel citizens of approaching tornados.

Wellborn suggested in addition to a network of storm spotters, a "hot line" should be opened direct from the U. S. National Weather Service headquarters in St. Louis to Malden from which weather warning information could be disseminated to the six- county sheriff's departments and civil defense directors. Once in the hands of the County Civil Defense Directors, this warning would be passed on to schools, hospitals, etc. by telephone, and to the general public by means of sirens. Wellborn went on to say, this hot line could prove particularly valuable after midnight when most people have their radios and televisions turned off.

Dick Wiethan, owner of Radio Station KTCB in Malden said, "Most radio stations in the Bootheel could return to the air and broadcast warnings after normal sign off if a severe weather bulletin is issued thru this hot line.

Wellborn concluded by saying, coordination between Bootheel cities and counties will be the key to the successful operation of an early storm warning system and the BRPC is prepared to extend any effort necessary to effect such coordination.

McMahon Leaves Marriage Years Wife After 27

NEW YORK (AP) — Ed McMahon, the television personality and Johnny Carson's sidekick on NBC's "Tonight" show, has left his wife of 27 years.

A spokesman for Mrs. McMahon on Monday described her as "devastated" and the couple's four children as "very hurt."

The spokesman said McMahon has decided to live alone in California when Carson moves his late night talk show from New York to Burbank next month.

Sources close to the family said McMahon had told his wife Alyce that he was "trapped by success" and, as a result, was never at home anyway.

The spokesman said McMahon has hired a lawyer to arrange a separation but Mrs. McMahon hadn't sought legal counsel yet. McMahon had no comment.

SCIENCE IN YOUR LIFE

Women may be an essential part of a fair jury trial. You read a few months ago in this column about the research of Dr. Jonathan Freedman of Columbia University and the problems of crowding.

Now, in The Sciences magazine, Paul Ehrlich of Stanford and Freedman report on work with groups in small and large rooms for lengthy periods. The test groups served as mock juries for taped courtroom cases, then completed questionnaires evaluating their companions and the experience as a whole.

All-female juries judged the experience more favorably and were more lenient jurors in a small room; all-male juries reacted more positively in larger spaces. But in mixed of male-female groups, the degree of crowding had no apparent effect on men, women, or the group as a whole.

Drs. Ehrlich and Freedman conclude that, "All-male juries or cabinets or international conferences should probably be avoided, or at least be given spacious quarters. Better still, women should be included, not only to give them equal representation, but because apparently any negative effects from crowding disappear when the sexes are mixed."

Vacuum packaging has no significant influence on tenderness, flavor, or juiciness of beef. However, it does cut the germ count significantly for vacuum packaged portions compared to non-packaged portions. And, vacuum packaging greaty reduces the weight loss during aging.

Since we are getting more and more vacuum-packed meats at the supermarkets, food scientists Daniel Minks and William C. Stringer of the UMC College of Agriculture made the tests which led to the above conclusions.

A taste panel tenderness score indicated that meat which was aged with no packaging was the least tender in this test. All things considered, the vacuum packaged beef holds substantial advantages for the supermarket shopper.

We have all heard encouraging reports of the effectiveness of methadone treatment of heroin addiction. Now it appears that babies are being born with methadone addictions.

A doctor at Washington D.C., General Hospital Jervatole Javate, reports that 23 babies who have been born to methadone - addicted mothers showed symptoms of methadone withdrawal. They were irritable, twitched violently, and had cold sweats. Hospital treatement to free them from the effects of methadone lasted up to 90 days.

Was it an attempt at humor or a solemn declaration that certain government offices are becoming more logical in thinking and sequence of operation? In response to persistent questions about the site of the future three-million dollar Very Large Array Telescope, Presidential science adviser Edward E. David, Jr., replied calmly that a site would be selected prior to the commencement of construction.

If we had more moisture in our timber areas we might have more or taller trees. Lack of soil moisture commonly limits tree growth in timbered areas of Missouri, said David L. Sims and Gene S. Cox, of the College of Agriculture's School of Forestry. Of the total rainfall on the forest, they point out, only a portion reaches the soil.

The canopy of leaves and branches intercepts nearly a fifth of the water that falls on the forest. The litter of accumulated leaves and twigs at the base of the trees hold nearly 10 per cent of the total fall. We can see then that even under the best of conditions the trees' roots are receiving only about two thirds of the water that falls on the forest.

Water Project Awaits Final Approval

HAYTI — "The new water system should be turned over to us (the city) very shortly now, perhaps within a week,' E. H. Webb, Hayti city clerk, said Tuesday, and so a water system project, begun by a vote in August of 1970, is about complete.

"Odds and ends at the treatment plant, such as getting leaks stopped, are all that remains to be done, Webb said.

The $400,000 water system, when approved, will include 14,000 feet of transmission lines, a 150,000 gallon storage tank, a new well, and a new treatment plant. Approval must come from Russell and Axon Engineers, St. Louis.

On August 17, 1970, voters overwhelmingly approved a $400,000 revenue bond issue for a new water system in a special city election by a vote of 264 for the proposal and 17 against it.

Construction then began the first of April, 1971. When approved, the new water system will have taken a little over a year to complete.

"We've had minor delays," Webb said, "but nothing unusual." He said there were always delays on any job, especially with getting materials.

Hayti Mayor Harry Dowdy said "it's the little delays that keeps putting off the opening of the system." He mentioned that he was "real pleased" with the system.

Contractors for the water system were Brauson Construction Company Inc., St. Louis, who laid the transmission lines; Universal Tank and Iron Work, Indianapolis, Ind., who erected the storage tank; Luhr Brothers, Columbia, Ill., who installed the water well; and L. and T. Construction Co., Grand Rivers, Ky., who build the treatment plant.

Webb noted that the new treatment plan would have a 600 gallon per minute capacity. The old plan had a capaicty of 300 gallons per minute and "it got overtaxed."

Webb concluded that because of the new water system, "we shouldn't have any more problems with the water and it is a big enough system to take care of a growing city for many years."

K.C. Man Pays School Tax Twice In Reverse Protest

KANSAS CITY (AP) — In what he described as a protest against protest, a retired Kansas Citian said Sunday he was paying his school taxes twice.

Everett Craighead handed a check to the treasurer of the city school district and said it was for more than $100.

Craighead said he took the action in protest against the device of paying taxes under protest used by supporters of private schools.

"Public schools are the most American of any American institution," he said.

Huge Dam

When completed, the Po Mong Dam, being built 15 miles upstream from Vientiane, capital of Laos, will be the first to span the Mekong River. The dam will stand 325 feet high, stretch close to a mile and back up twice as much water as Lake Mead holds behind Hoover Dam.

Irish Bombings Turn Pets Into Nervous Wrecks

BELFAST (AP) — Northern Ireland's repeated bombings are turning domestic pets into nervous wrecks, the Ulster Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals said today.

Mrs. [May Pitt, society secretary, said dogs and cats in the battle areas frequently turn vicious.

"People move out of their homes after a bomb blast," she said, "and their first thought is for human life.

"But when they return they often find that their dog has wandered off and turned wild.

"We find a lot of these animals on the streets and many others are brought in to us for treatment. A human being can understand these troubles, but you can't explain an explosion to a dog."

Mrs. Pitt said the number of cases at the society's Belfast clinic had doubled over the past two years of the Irish Republican Army's guerrilla campaign for a united Ireland.

Society vans have been shot at and stoned by hooligans, sometimes on being lured into trouble spots by hoax calls.

Historical House Being Restored At Bloomfield

BLOOMFIELD — The Stoddard County Historical Society has begun work restoring an 82-year-old log house built originally by Mr. and Mrs. Morton Barnett north of Circle City. The building was donated by Ted Davis of Hunterville.

The house, built from poplar logs, features four rooms and is two stories high, containing breezeway through the center.

The house originally had a rived roof. The society is hand-making a heavier one. It hopes to add fireplaces at each end.

The house will be taken apart log by log and moved to the Bloomfield City Park, whee it will become a permanent display and exhibit site.

Joe Brown of Hunterville, member of the Society, said that "there are several log houses left in the area but are usually in pretty bad shape. The ones left in good shape are generally those housed later inside of other buildings."

The Society has published a book titled "History of Stoddard County", and is in the process of compiling a cemetery list. It will contain all the marked graves in the county that could be found by the members.

During the last year's Bloomfield Homecoming members presented attractions from the past. One member demonstrated the making of wool thread and sheared sheep to begin the process. Boards were rived demonstrating the making of shingles as is being done on the Barnett home.

MR. AND MRS. MORTON BARNETT appearing years ago before the home being restored by the Stoddard County Historical Society. The log house will be moved by the members to the Bloomfield City Park.

Billboards Being Inspected In State

JEFFERSON CITY — Action on Missouri's billboard law moved this week from the legislative halls onto the state's roadsides as Missouri State Highway Department personnel began the task of implementing the newly-enacted measure.

Department Chief Engineer Robert N. Hunter said today that Department personnel already were on the highways updating a 1966 Department inventory of billboards.

"This inventory will give us a record of signs along our Primary system," Hunter said, "as well as showing any changes made in signs since our original inventory about six years ago."

The job will take about a month to complete, he said. It will be done with regular Department personnel.

Hunter said also that the Department was evaluating and reviewing applications for sign permits through its ten district offices. Arrangements for handling the permits were explained at a district engineers' meeting last week to assure state- wide uniformity, Hunter said. Under the act, the Department must issue permits and identification tags for lawful billboards which were in existence prior to March 30, the effective date of the act.

Owners will have 90 days in which to apply for a permit, Hunter said.

Some signs, such as those which are obsolete, not in good repair, or are mounted on trees or painted on rocks, etc., are not eligible for permits.

Fees for legal billboards will be $5 for those having less than 300 square feet and $10 for those with more than 300 square feet. Similar charges will be assessed for biennial inspections to see that the signs meet requirements of the law.

Hunter said the permit fees will be deposited in a separate account under the state road fund.

After the new inventory is completed and permits issued for all lawful structures, Hunter said, the department will start the task of determining which signs must come down and the value of them.

Billboards and property owners will be notified by the Highway Commission if their billboards are unlawful.

Ford Recalls Most Torinos And Montegos

DETROIT (AP) — Ford Motor Co. announced Monday it is recalling nearly 400,000 Ford Torinos and Mercury Montegos—virtually the entire 1972 model run of the popular intermediate-size cars—to correct a defect which could allow rear wheels to come off the car.

Gordon H. Robertson, service engineering manager of Ford's Customer Service Division, said the company has received reports of rear axle bearing deterioration caused by a variety of factors. In extreme cases, Robertson said, the condition could lead to an axle shaft coming detached.

Missouri Escapee Is Denied Hearing

WASHINGTON (AP) — A 19year-old convicted burglar who said escape is the only way to avoid homosexual rape in prison was refused a hearing today by the Supreme Court.

By an 8 to 1 vote the court turned down the appeal of John Charles Green, an inmate in the Missouri Training Center for Men in Moberly.

Green claimed he was assaulted twice by knife-wielding fellow prisoners and that both times he feigned suicide as a way of alerting prison authorities but was told he could either submit, fight back or escape.

Justice William O. Douglas voted to hear the appeal.

Green, who is white, said that on April 14, 1967, he was told by five black prisoners that he would be beaten if he did not submit again that same night.

Green said he escaped from the prison to avoid the attack. He was picked up by state police the next morning only a few miles from the prison.

A county Circuit Court convicted Green of escape from the prison and sentenced him to three more years in jail.

His appeal was subsequently turned down by the Missouri Supreme Court, which said Green was not being pursued at the time of his escape and ruled that he had not made a sufficient effort to complain to the courts about the attacks.

In his appeal, Green said that "The fact that a slightly built 19-year-old prisoner could be raped by groups of roving inmates and was repeatedly denied protection by prison authorities bespeaks the most shameless denial of due process and equal protection under the 14th Amendment."

Senate Panel Okays $2.20 Wage Minimum

WASHINGTON (AP) — With no opposition from Republican members, the Senate Labor subcommittee has approved a bill providing a $2.20-per-hour minimum wage, higher than the Nixon administration wants.

The subcommittee sent the bill to the Labor Committee Tuesday without a dissenting vote.

The bill provides $2 minimum two months after enactment, and a $2.20 figure a year later for all workers covered by minimum wage laws before 1966. For those coming in after 1966, it provides $1.80 within two months of enactment, $2 a year later and $2.20 a year after that.

The White House wants the present $1.60 floor raised to $2 through 1974.

The bill would also bring under the law more than six million additional workers besides the 45 million now covered.

Children Need To Learn Bike Rules

JEFFERSON CITY — Youthful bicycle riders will soon be out in numbers on Missouri roads. With this in mind, Colonel E. I. (Mike) Hockaday, the Superintendent of the Missouri State Highway Patrol, today reminded parents of their responsibility to teach children the rules for safe bicycle riding.

"The use of bicycles for transportation and recreation is steadily increasing," Hockaday noted. "It is important, therefore, that parents teach their youngsters all the safe riding rules. For example, young cyclists should be instructed on the proper signals for turns. They should be impressed with the need for keeping to the righthand side of the road and riding in single file if in a group."

Colonel Hockaday noted that it is also important that a bicycle be in good mechanical condition. Parents should see that worn parts are replaced as soon as detected. He pointed out that a mechanical failure on a bicycle, like on an automobile, can cause a serious accident.

"Bicycle riders have the same active responsibility in traffic as drivers of motor vehicles," the Colonel continued. "Parents can install this feeling of responisbility in their children by instruction and example."

Insurance Law Ruled Invalid

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — The Illinois Supreme Court declared Monday that the state no fault automobile insurance law is unconstitutional because it discriminates against accident victims not covered by the new type of "first persons" policies provided under the measure.

The court also held the law unconstitutional on grounds it abridges the right of a jury trial in some cases and violates a ban on fee officers in the judicial system by requiring arbitration of some disputes.

Washington Report by Senator Symington

WASHINGTON, D.C.— During a time of extensive Senate floor debate, action has been taken in various Senate committees on a number of proposed legislative measures.

LAOS. As Chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Subcommittee on Security Agreements and Commitments Abroad, I recently held hearings to consider the relationship between the activities of the Agency for International Development (AID—, the CIA and the Department of Defense in Laos.

Representatives from AID and the Department of State were present at the meeting.

In a March 21 letter to Dr. John Hannah, Administrator-for AIR, I requested the hearings be held to discuss various questions which had surfaced recently in the press regarding the use of AID in Laos as a cover for CIA personnel and programs.

DRUGS. The Senate Armed Services Subcommittee on Drug Abuse has completed hearings on several proposals to expand treatment and rehabilitiation programs for men and women who have been found to be drug dependent or drug users while serving in the Armed Services.

One legislative proposal would require treatment for drug dependent service members up to 30 days. Another would authorize those who would volunteer for medical treatment to be exempted from such disciplinary action that would otherwise arise as a result of the serviceman being identified as drug dependent. Still another proposal would expand veterans' treatment programs to prior drug dependent service personnel regardless of the nature of their discharrge.

The Subcommittee will now consider and make a recommendation to the full Committee for a bill to bring before the Senate.

VETERANS. The Senate Veterans Affairs Subcommittee on Readjustment, Education and Employment has recently held hearings on a number of bills designed to increase educational opportunities for returning veterans.

The bills propose to increase educational assistance payments, which currently include assistance in meeting costs for tuition, books and other supplies.

Educational assistance is also offered to wives or widows, and children, of veterans who have died or are permanently suffering from service- connected disabilities.

Additional hearings on the bills are scheduled in the latter part of April.

DR. LAWRENCE E. LAMB

Altitudes Out For Heart Victims

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb—I have a heart problem that was brought on by a fractious gallbladder removed after a week's delay due to the heart's unstable condition. I suffered two serious attacks and my case was considered very serious. My doctor is very good and gives me periodic checkups and he tells me I have made a remarkable recovery, but I would like to know more.

At my age, 82, I feel that there are things I would like to do, such as a two-day trip or more in the mountains (not climbing) above the 8,000 feet limit. I do not have any heart pains, but I have herpes zoster in my chest and arthritis in my neck.

I know you can't diagnose my case by remote control, but since I have no heart pain and desire to do things, I believe I will grow stronger if I do them instead of sitting and admiring four walls. What do you think?

Dear Reader—I am all in favor of people remaining moderately active as long as they can. It is one of the things that makes living enjoyable and probably prolongs life and health. Of course I don't know how much heart trouble you have really had from your letter so it is difficult for me to be very specific. It sounds to me like you are able to walk around comfortably and get around in your usual environment. I note that you live in Colorado and apparently already live at some elevation of altitude. This may make it easier for you to visit higher altitudes than someone who lived at sea level.

In general for people who live at sea level, I feel that they should not go to altitudes higher than 5,000 feet, if they have any significant heart trouble. If it is necessary for them to go to altitudes higher than this, they should proceed cautiously and not try to combine these events with fishing or hunting or other forms of increased physical activity that is not within their usual daily level of activity. After a week at higher altitudes, it is safer to increase one's level of physical activity.

I suppose if you already live at an altitude approaching 5,000 feet, that up to 8,000 feet wouldn't make too much difference, but at any time you go to a significant increase of altitude above your usual living quarters, I would strongly recommend that you take it easy initially.

Even at 82 I am sure that someone with your enthusiasm can find a lot of things to do without going to significantly higher altitudes.

More Than $200,000 In Taxes Collected

JEFFERSON CITY — Secretary of State James C. Kirkpatrick announced that through the efforts of his office over $200,000 has been collected in delinquient corporate franchise taxes since January 1. The money has been collected from corporations which had failed to pay their taxes prior to the December 31st deadline.

Kirkpatrick attributed the record amount of money collected to a letter from his office alerting corporations of their delinquency, and threatening them with forfeiture of their corporate charters.

Kirkpatrick warned the remainingdelinquent corporations are immediate danger of having their charters forfeited and losing all right to do business in Missouri.

"On January 1, the Missouri Department of Revenue certified to our office a list of mroe than 8,000 corporations which had not paid their franchise tax," Kirkpatrick explained. "We believed this was an unintentional oversight by most of the corporations. So, rather than forfeit their charters immediately, we notified them of their delinquent status and urged them to pay their taxes and panalties. I felt it would have been unreasonable to take away a man's license to do business without further notification and require him to pay $50 to be reinstated without a chance to correct the oversight. It would have also caused an impossible heavy burden on our office to forfeit all those chargers and then have to go through the rescission process as soon as the taxes were paid.

"The response by the businessmen has certainiy proved us right. As of April 7, over $213,152.19 has been collected and only a few corporations remained delinquent for failure to pay their taxes. We are grateful for the cooperation we have gotten from the businessmen.

"We plan now to move to collect the taxes from the reamining delinquent corporations or forfeit their charters.

Kirkpatrick observed, "At a time when state government is so badly pressed for funds, it is heartening indeed to dollect this amount of money at so little expense to the taxpayers. One letter has produced over $200,000 and saved the Department of Revenue from having to institute time consuming legal actions. Missouri taxpayers can be sure that we are making every effort to see that all corporations pay their taxes and any penalties for delinquency."

Museums Organization Formed

COLUMBIA — A new museums organization with aims of statewide communication and improvement of facilities has been formed at the University of Missouri.

The first meeting of the Missouri Museums Association will be April 15 at the Hotel Frederick in Boonville. Speaker will be Mrs. Warren E. Hearnes, well known for her interest in state cultural and historic activities and her interest in the restoration of the Governor's Mansion in Jefferson City.

MMA published its first newsletter in which a partial list of bylaws included the maintenance of "lines of communication between members, to discuss problems of their institutions and to foster inter- institutional services." Chairman of the bylaws committee is Richard Nolf, director of the St. Joseph and Pony Express Museums. Co- editors of the newsletter are Alden Redfield, director, and Margaret Marshall Coats, assistant cirector of the UMC Museum of Anthropology.

To be published quarterly, the newsletter will include works by students of UMC museum classes, will stress useful ideas and provide reviews of books and articles of importance to museum workers. One article on security is scheduled for the next issue, with a checklist of 18 points which should be considered in protecting museum collections. Contributions from members for future publications will be enthusiastically welcomed.

MMA is the result of a 50-member organization committee comprised of representatives from all over the state who saw the need for lines of communication between the over 200 museum and museum- related organizations in Missouri. During the past year this committee has drawn up plans for a set of bylaws to allow discussion of common goals, organization of exhibits and loans, to provide solutions to problems and to publish a quarterly newsletter.

Interested Columbia residents include Dr. Saul Weinberg, director of the UMC Museum of Art and Archaeology, Dr. Richard S. Brownlee, director and secretary of the State Historical Society of Missouri, and Sid Larsen, art department director, Columbia College. Mrs. Evangeline Groth of the Museum of Science and Natural History, St. Louis, is designing a logo for future MMA publications and letterhead.

A Season for Love

SUMMER SITUATIONS. By Ann Birstein. Coward, McCann. $5.95.

There are three novellas in this book. In each case women are the central figures, and quite bitchy types they are, too. The title happens to refer to the fact that the scenes are in summertime, which may or may not be an excuse for what the characters do.

"Love in the Dunes" is about two families from a faculty background, sharing a summer house at the beach. One of the wives, Shirley, has an itch for the other husband, Charlie; she doesn't particularly care whether her husband Max flirts with Charlie's wife Marlene. The cautious Charlie is seduced by Shirley, but the twist is that she realizes it's only a summer game, unlikely to continue when they all return to the campus.

Many Towns Claim First Memorial Day

At least 25 communities have proclaimed their town as the site of the first Memorial day observance in the United States.

As far back as July 4, 1864, three women members of a church in Boalsburg, Pa., placed flowers on the graves of their Civil war dead. A sign on the edge of the village's cemetery calls the town the birthplace of Memorial day.

In April, 1865, Sue Landon Vaughan, a descendant of President John Adams, put out a call to decorate Confederate graves on the 26th of that month. Her act is described on a stone monument in the old State Capitol grounds in Jackson, now known as "Confederate park."

A newspaper reporter, James Redpath of Charleston, S. C., wrote that the graves of 275 Union soldiers were decorated by the families of their former slaves on May 1, 1865.

One of the most authentic claims appears to have come from the act of three women on April 25, 1866. In Friendship cemetery in Columbus, Miss., they gathered to decorate the graves of fallen soldiers of the Confederate army. Moving from these graves to another 40 where Union soldiers were buried, they laid flowers on the burial places of the enemy soldiers.

This act brought about the writing of a poem titled "The Blue and the Gray," by Miles Finch, an Ithaca, N. Y., lawyer. This event and the poem are said to have given more impetus to the now nationwide custom than any other single action.

Meanwhile, in Columbus, Ga., in a letter to the editor, a woman named Mrs. Mary Williams appealed to everyone to dedicate one day in the year to cover soldiers' graves with flowers. April 26 was indicated as the preferred date because that was the anniversary of the surrender of Gen. Joseph E. Johnston, who commanded the last of the forces of the Confederate army.

At the Linwood cemetery in Columbus, a tombstone marks the grave of Lizzie Rutherford Ellis, whom Mrs. Williams credited with giving her the original suggestion.

There are several episodes involving the origin of this day in Richmond, Va. One is that Cassandra Oliver Moncure Lyne decorated graves in both the city's Oakwood and Hollywood cemeteries. The date chosen was May 10 because it was the anniversary of the death of Gen. Stonewall Jackson. Then, there was an observance on June 3 of the same year, 1866, at Belle Isle on the James river near Richmond.

Other communities, mostly in the South, have also claimed credit for the origin of the observance, according to Ernest C. Klein, pastor of St. Peter's United Church of Christ in Huntington, Ind., and an Army reserve chaplain for the 12th Special Forces group, who wrote a short history on the origin of Memorial day for the Military Order of the Loyal Legion, a patriotic organization with Civil war roots.

They are Winchester, Petersburg, Fredericksburg, Warrenton and Portsmouth, all in Virginia; Atlanta and Milledgeville in Georgia; Camden, Ark.; Cincinnati, Johnston, and Montgomery in Alabama; New Orleans; Raleigh, N. C.; Vicksburg, Miss.; Washington and Hopkinton, Ia.

The day came into general acceptance in 1868 when Gen. John Alexander Logan, head of the Grand Army of the Republic, a civilian patriotic organization, issued his Order No. 11 proclaiming that May 30 was to be a nationwide date for decorating the graves of the war dead of both sides.

Not everyone went along with the date at the time and even now Southern states have their own memorial days. April 26 is the day in Alabama, Florida, Georgia and Mississippi. In the Carolinas it is May 10 and in Louisiana and Tennessee it is June 3.

Memorial day is included in recent federal legislation which calls for four major holidays to fall on appropriate Mondays. The new law applies to only federal and District of Columbia employees, but most states are expected to go along with the new setup.

In all events, in the government cemeteries all over the world where over a half million American servicemen are buried, official observances will be held. In 23 cemeteries in foreign countries, small American flag from the government and flowers from various nationalists will adorn the graves.

In 97 cemeteries located in America the same size flag will be used. The largest number of war dead is at Arlington cemetery outside Washington. A total of 120,000 graves there will be decorated.

The first successful appendectomy operation on record was performed in England in 1736.

Skin Expert Advises Women To Spend Time Removing Makeup

NEW YORK (AP) — "Keep your face perfect so you can show it naked," says skin care authority Georgette Klinger who would like to see women spend as much time taking off their makeup as they do putting it on.

Miss Klinger has been pampering skin for 30 years, and in the blue and white office of her Madison Avenue salon she was willing to point out some ways for women — and men — to achieve healthy complexions. A petite and graceful woman, whose unlined face is a testimony to her skills, she refused, however, to generalize about how each individual should take care of her skin. "What each one does — it should all be different," she stated.

"People don't know about taking care of their skins," she began, pointing out that the time to start serious skin care is "when the first blackhead arrives."

"There's a lot of pollution now, so many more people have skin allergies and clogged pores," she says. "Hair is more of a problem too, with all the hair sprays and setting lotions. Using hair spray is like putting varnish on the face."

Miss Klinger says she is against the "so-called medicated makeup. The base is so heavy it clogs pores and cake makeup does the same thing," she explains.

She urges women to stay out of the sun — "it's drying, discoloring and causes changes in pigmentation" and she maintains that women need different cleansers in the summer.

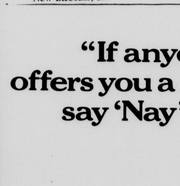
Miss Klinger recently expanded and redecorated her salon, devoting an entire floor to her male clients who, she says, are numerous. The reception area is plush — with wall to wall carpeting and walls that are either mirrored or covered with linen, but the treatment rooms, where her clients recline in white lounge chairs under blue and white coverlets, are sparse, spotless and clinically bare.

Her facials are individualized, but one might include removal of makeup, a pore-cleaning mask, massage with cream and even a face steaming over a bowl of herbal tea.

In this age of concern for the "natural," with skin potions being made from all kinds of berries and vegetables, Miss Klinger says, "Strawberries and cucumbers are good to eat but they don't belong on your face." She points out, however, that long before use of natural products was a fad, she was using ones such as honey masks, cod liver oil masks and avocado oils which she says have proven value.

Her staff includes a resident chemist and Miss Klinger says she would be the first one to send a client to a dermatologist if necessary. But she maintains that in most cases the skin is a cosmetic rather than a medical problem. She uses no preservatives to extend the shelf life of her products, and she refuses to sell them through any outlets outside her own salon. Nor does she advertise.

"You have to promise miracles when you advertise," she says, "and I don't believe in miracles — just good skin care. My pride is the grandmothers who look just as good as their granddaughters."



"New bifocals, eh?"

COOKING-UP with judy gazett

The Daily Standard, Sikeston, Mo.
Wednesday, April 19, 1972 23

In answer to several requests for casseroles, I have to tell you, I've tried very few new ones of late, but I do have some trusty ones filed away. The Beef-Bean is the oldest one on my records -- I made it for the first time when I was about 12 or 13. And that's a good idea ... put your youngsters to work in the kitchen!

Nothing quick and easy about The Hungry Boys' dish, however it will treat a fairly large crowd. It was a bake-off winner several years ago.

Also including two rules for easy pastry -- ones that haven't failed me yet.

Asparagus season is here ... or so I'm told ... I haven't had time to search fence rows and railroad tracks, but I'm sure it's there. It's easy to freeze and high in nutrition, so take advantage.

What glorious weather! At last ... we must have pleased the Gods!

Be Happy ...!

She Has her Job All Sewn Up Ready To Ship It to the Moon

SPACE AGE SEAMSTRESS Mrs. Ann Nieroda is shown here working on the thermal insulation blankets that will go to the moon with Apollo 16.

MOORESTOWN, N. J. (AP) — Petticoats and pajamas won't go to the moon with Apollo 16, but some of Mrs. Ann Nieroda's stitching will.

She is a space-age seamstress who designs, develops and finally sews the multi-layered plastic thermal insulation blankets that will be wrapped around much of the hardware on the spacecraft. The blankets are needed because the temperatures in outer space tumble down much deeper or climb higher than on earth.

Before she was even a teenager Mrs. Nieroda learned from her mother how to make petticoats and pajamas. Now she still sews as an avocation. When her husband, a New York City banker, died she left her native Brooklyn, settled in Monmouth Junction near here a few years ago and became a specialist in sewing mylar plastic thermal coverings.

The trick to this, she explains, is that, unlike sewing cloth, the stitching cannot be removed from the mylar without permanently damaging it so a mistake can be very costly.

She recently completed the thermal coverings — some of which have as many as 27 thicknesses — for the Ground Commanded Television Assembly (GCTA) and the Lunar Communications Relay Unit (LCRU). coverings that will blanket equipment during the flight of Apollo 16. While most of the public will be generally conscious only of the color cameras that will send back pictures from the moon, Mrs. Nieroda will be watching to see the thermal insulation will keep much of the sophisticated gear warm enough — or cool enough — to make the mission a success.

Mrs. Nieroda has worked in the electronics industry for more than 15 years, the last three with RCA's Astro Electronics Division as one of the few women who helped boost men to the moon.

Texas Parade Of Good Looks

DALLAS—(NEA)—From the 22nd annual presentation of the Texas Fashion Creators Assn. comes a parade of looks that go from spring into summer.

The theme could be "three cheers for the red, white and blue," in everything from sportswear to late evening fashions. And black and white, in abstract prints, is a combo that is giving the patriotic colors a close run for the money and creating a mood of its own.

Nostalgia makes its appearance in seersucker, pique, voile and gingham, but they are updated for '72 in versatile blends of knits and woven fabrics. King Cotton lives up to the name in the royal treatment given it by the Texans.

There are dots with dots, dots with prints and dots with stripes and a wonderful burgeoning of flora in delicate prints.

To accent the designs, belts have distinctive closings, embroidery is elaborate and appliques are colorful. These show up in such unexpected places as on the flare of a pant leg.

Airlines Chided For Not Using Hi jack Checks

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Aviation Administration has accused two airlines of failing to screen passengers boarding flights that were later hijacked.

One of the airlines—Pacific Southwest—denied it violated new FAA regulations aimed at preventing hijackings, and the other—United—said it was conducting a full investigation of all security procedures.

The FAA Tuesday gave the airlines 20 days to reply to the charges that could result in penalizing the carriers $1,000 for each violation found.

In the United hijacking last Friday, a gunman held the plane for $500,000 ransom and parachuted with the money. The PSA case two days later appeared patterned after the United incident, but the hijacker was captured before any money was paid.

The FBI has arrested suspects in both cases.

The hijackings were the first since adoption of new FAA rules Feb. 6 requiring airlines to screen passengers to prevent weapons or explosives from being put aboard commercial aircraft.

SPRING

Spring came to me when I was young.
It only seems like yesterday.
I sat beside the windowsill
and watched the sunshine melt away.

Then winter came without a word
and took the Spring away from me.
The cold wind swept into my heart
and filled my days with misery.

But winter leaves me unafraid;
no tears are lost for one old friend.
I merely sit and count the rain,
and wait for Spring to come again.

Librarians Will Meet At Cape

CAPE GIRARDEAU -- Southeast Missouri State College will host the spring meeting Saturday of the Missouri Association of College and Reference Librarians.

The meeting will be in Kent Library with registration to begin at 9:30 a.m. There will be a business meeting at 10, and the first general session will begin at 10:30 with an address by Dr. August R. Suelflow, librarian of Concordia Historical Institute which is affiliated with Concordia Seminary in St. Louis.

Dr. Suelflow, who is nationally- known in his field, will discuss the conference theme, "Archives and Local History," according to Dr. Felix Snider, director of libraries at Southeast Missouri State.

Dr. Snider said about 50 members of the association will attend the meeting, and he extended an invitation to history teachers, librarians, and any other persons to attend as well, noting that the theme was decided upon with the thought that it would have some general appeal.

Saturday afternoon's session will include a report on the results of a survey of Missouri colleges by the organization "as to what they have and what they are doing with archives," said Dr. Snider. There will also be a symposium on local history collections with representatives from each campus participating, and a presentation by Mildred Vogelsang, librarian at Cape Central High School, on the selection, handling, and utilization of clippings.

Dr. Snider is also scheduled to talk briefly about local history. "I haven't decided whether to approach it from the standpoint of the librarian or that of the publisher," he said. Dr. Snider is owner of the Ramfre Press which specializes in publishing historical books on southeast Missouri.

At 3 p.m. the campus visitors will tour Kent Library and see a demonstration of the library's automated acquisitions system, which was recently implemented, using the facilities of Southeast Missouri State's computer center.

At the morning business meeting members of the association will elect officers, decide upon the next meeting site, and possibly select a theme for the next meeting, Dr. Snider said. Dr. Mark F. Scully, president of Southeast Missouri State, will welcome the group to the campus.

Current president of the organization is Mrs. Betty Duvall of Florissant Valley Community College in St. Louis County.

The Missouri Association of College and Reference Librarians is a division of the Missouri Library Association and meets jointly with that organization each fall while scheduling a separate meeting on different campuses around the state each spring.

"We invited them down when we moved into our new building," Dr. Snider said, "and they're just now getting around to us."

Economy Gains, Rate Of Inflation Surges

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's economy recorded a strong gain in the first three months of the year, but the post-freeze rate of inflation surged to a sharp 6.2 per cent, the government said today.

The Commerce Department reported that Gross National Product, market value of the nation's goods and services, rose $30.3 billion in the January-March quarter, advancing at an annual rate of 11.8 per cent.

But well over half the increase was attributed to inflation, as prices soared following the close of the wage-price freeze and the onset of President Nixon's Phase 2 economic controls.

GNP is the broadest measure of the economy. The Nixon administration has projected that it will rise by 9.4 per cent for all of 1972.

The $30.3-billion gain brought GNP to a seasonally adjusted annual rate of $1.103 trillion, the department said.

The increase was about in line with administration projections lthough the rate of inflation was sharply above the forecast.

According to administration projections, about two-thirds of the expected 9.4 per cent growth is supposed to be a noninflationary gain.

But the figures for the first quarter showed that the gain in that period, with inflation discounted, was 5.3 per cent.

This was slower than the 5.8 per cent recorded in the last three months of 1971, when the economy quickened after a mid-year slowdown.

GNP increased $19.5 billion in the last three months of last year, but the rate of inflation was only 1.7 per cent.

The 6.2 per cent figure on price increases the first quarter was the highest since the 6.3 per cent recorded in the fourth quarter of 1970, Commerce officials said.

The administration says the post-freeze bulge in inflation already has subsided and the slower rate should show in later statistics.

In another report, the department said personal income of all Americans increased $3.3 billion in March to a seasonally adjusted annual rate of $905 billion.

The department also said personal income in February actually increased by $9 billion instead of the $5 billion reported originally.

It said the unusually large February revision took into account estimates of retroactive pay increases approved by the Pay Board.

Richard Bloomfield

Dr. Richard A. Bloomfield, 39, acting dean of the graduate school of the University of Missouri in Columbia and a native of Sikeston, died at 12:45 a.m. today at the Boone County Hospital in Columbia. He was 39.

Dean Bloomfield was born Jan. 2, 1933 in Sikeston. His father was the late D. L. Bloomfield. His mother, Mabel Walton Bloomfield, lives in Sikeston.

He married the former Mary Jane Terrell of Sikeston, who survives. Also surviving are three children, Cynthia Louise, Matthew David and Emily Jane Bloomfield and a brother, Lee Bloomfield of Essex.

As a teacher he was recognized for superior teaching in 1969 by Gamma Sigma Delta, honorary graduate fraternity. His former students at that time submitted letters commending him in such terms as "his course was the most interesting chemistry course I took in college," a wish that the University "had more teachers like him," and "his enthusiasm for chemistry is contagious and increased our interest in the subject."

In research, nearly $200,000 in grants attested to his ability.

He moved through the ranks of assistant professor to full professor, associate dean of the Graduate School, and since last September as acting dean of the Graduate School, which indicated his ability in administration.

Dr. Bloomfield obtained all of his agricultural chemistry degrees, a bachelor's in 1954, master.s in 1958, and doctorate in 1960, at UMC. His underclass studies were at Southeast Missouri State College at Cape Girardeau where he was enrolled from 1950-52. His schooling was interrupted in 1954-56 for service in the Army Chemical Corps. Hoai An Is Sixth Viet Town To Fall

SAIGON (AP) - North Vietnam's three-week -old offensive scored today in coastal Binh Dinh Province east of the central highlands as Communist forces overran a South Vietnamese battalion headquarters and captured the nearby district town of Hoai An.

It was the first major success on the central coast for the offensive, in which the North Vietnamese previously have taken a 10-mile strip below the demilitarized zone and captured two district towns near the Cambodian border north of Saigon.

The defenders of Hoai An, 300 miles northeast of Saigon, and Landing Zone Orange, the battalion headquarters two miles away, fled in confusion. Field reports said that in a week of fighting prior to the climactic thrust, at least 80 government troops were killed and 70 were wounded.

Hoai An is the sixth of South Vietnam's 242 district towns lost by the government in the enemy offensive, while landing Zone Orange is the 18th government military position given up. Landing Zone Pony, just south of Hanoi An was abandoned under pressure two days ago, field reports said.

Three American advisers were evacuated by helicopter from Hoai An and Orange. One of them was slightly wounded.

A battalion of South Vietnamese troops from the 22nd Division fled from Orange under heavy fire. "They broke up and ran," said one field report.

In the air war, meanwhile, U.S. fighter-bombers returned inforce to North Vietnam's skies after a two-day curtailment and flew between 100 and 150 strikes against fuel and supply depots in the southern panhandle.

The planes stayed away from the Hanoi-Haiphong heartland for the third straight day, U.S. military sources said.

Prisoners Can Work In Towns

CHAFFEE — Scott County Sheriff John Dennis told the county mayor's association last night that county jail prisoners are available for work projects in towns and in the county.

Dennis said the courts prefer to have the prisoners work rather than sit idly in jail. The prisoners also like the idea, Dennis said, because they get three days off their sentences for every day they work.

Dennis said the prisoners can be used for cleaning up brush, cemeteries, rights of-way and other projects.

He said he doesn't have enough deputies to provide overseers for the projects so it will be up to the towns to pick them up at the jail, supervise their work, feed them their noon meal, and return them to jail at night.

Dennis said no dangerous prisoners will be used. He said only those serving sentences for misdemeanors will be allowed to work. They are not likely to try to escape, he said.

Tongate Leaves Zoning Group

E. L. Tongate has resigned from the City Planning and Zoning Commission and the group last night nominated Realtor Ted Elliott to fill the vacancy.

Tongate, a member of the commission since its founding in 1968, resigned yesterday for "personal reasons."

Raymert Miller suggested the commission nominate Elliott. Miller said the commission could use the expertise and insight that a real estate agent could bring to the board. Elliott must be appointed by the city council.

Commission members were also impressed with Elliott's handling of a property line dispute on the east side of Dempster Street. Until now, no one had been able to decide where the property lines on 12 lots were located. Elliott was able to dig out an amended plat at Benton showing the placement of the property lines.

Owners of the property in question then agreed to move their lot lines 20 feet south. Elliott said this would put the property lines where the owners always assumed they were. The commission approved the plan.

A proposed 20-acre subdivision north of Murray Lane between Clayton and Keith- McCord additions was approved by the commission. The development will include 60 single family and multi-family units. The property is owned by Clifford Cole of Piggott, Ark.

Acting City Manager Bill Whitlock told the commission the city would probably break ground in about a month for the new city park west of the airport. He said the completion date for the park is set for Dec. 31, 1973.

A SOCIAL CONTRACT:
OF CHANGE

Effective response to social change is possibly the most demanding challenge for all of us in the 20th Century.

Many aspects of American life are under attack. On the business side, profit is suspect. The concept of rising standards of living, once known as progress, is today all too often labeled "false" or "crass" materialism. The utilization of nature's resources is regarded by many as ecological destruction. Technology is charged with being the enemy of human values. Size achieved through efficiency is considered somehow illegal and immoral.

In accepting the responsibilities of its social contract — to furnish to the consumer the goods and services he wants at a satisfactory return to owner - investors — industry has depended upon the general public and the government to provide a reasonably harmonious atmosphere in which to provide and distribute its products and services.

A changing value structure, however, materially affects the social contract under which American companies historically have functioned. That's why effective management in these troubled times must choose to manage change and not to become its victim.

Typical of the new breed at the top of American business are the men running American Can Company. Under the guidance of Chairman of the Board and President William F. May, American Can — itself and American institution — has accepted as a major management responsibility the function of listening and reponding to "what the public is trying to tell us about ourselves and about themselves. Management must also satisfy the legitimate needs of three participating partners — its customers, its owners and its employees — and strike a balance that is fair to all three."

This, according to Mr. May in the company's 1971 annual report, explains "our continuing and expanded efforts in litter and pollution control, our individual and inter-industry participation in projecting the new industry of resource recovery, our enlarged listening posts in government relations, and our preoccupation with the intricate human interactions generally termed public affairs."

The top managment at American Can probes into these areas, not simply for intellectual stimulus, but for guidelines to the successful management of change itself! We relate to this kind of enterprise. No company or institution can stand apart from these considerations without disaster. Change is a fact.

We're all in this ball game together.

CHANGES IN EDUCATION --
WITH A GRAIN OF SALT

Scarcely a week passes that somebody doesn't come up with a new method or a new gimmick to make learning easier, more effective and more certain.

The Department of Health, Education and Welfare in fact predicts that "an entirely new range of teaching techniques" will be introduced within the next 5 years, not excluding "the use of controlled nutrition or drugs to raise I.Q., accelerate reading or enhance awareness."

According to University of California education professor Dr. Laurence Iannaccone, "there is no question that public education will undergo a revolution in the next 10 years" — a drastic change in who runs the schools, what is taught and who learns.

Dr. Joel Spring, professor of education at Case Western Reserve University, charging that public schools follow a ritualistic process to "fit" people into society, recommends doing away with schools altogether and in their place setting up a voluntary system of education within society.

"There wouldn't be school dropouts if there weren't schools," he says.

At the other extreme, a panel of 17 distinguished educators and educational innovators claims that the only reason progressive education has apparently failed is because, like Christianity, it has never really been tried. Hard progressive education entered the mainstream of American education after it was first introduced at the turn of the century, they suggest, we might not now be faced with such critical problems as the polarization of the races.

A common thread linking all these complaints is the unspoken understanding that when we talk about education, we are talking about education for the young. The underlying philosophy is that all children begin as eager and receptive vessels, and that if they fail to be filled with knowledge, it is the teacher's fault or the system's fault.

Nobody ever complains about the state of adult education. Nobody calls for a revolution in the night school classrooms or in the postgraduate school, at least as far as teaching methods are concerned.

There are, of course, good ways and bad ways to teach adults. It can be made easy or it can be made difficult for an immigrant, for example, to learn English, or for a displaced worker to learn a new skill.

But essentially, there is simply a certain body of knowledge to be acquired and the adult either acquires it or he doesn't. He usually does, because he wants to. He sees a clear connection between what he desires in life and what he must know in order to pursue his desires. He doesn't need to have his awareness "enhanced" or to have knowledge pumped painlessly into his head while he isn't looking.

Children, obviously, aren't adults. They are set apart from the adult world, especially in this technological age when adolescence extends into their 20s. They lack the experience and responsibilities which give adults the motivation and inner discipline necessary for learning. They are rapidly changing physically and psychologically and are prey to all kinds of fears about those changes. They have parent problems, peer problems.

Just growing up is hard enough without the added pressure of having to learn all the things adult society says they must learn.

This has been the problem in education ever since man stopped being predominantly a hunter or a farmer, and the most ingenious new pedagogic approach isn't going to solve it.

Maybe Spring has the right idea. Maybe we ought to do away with compulsory schooling and make education entirely voluntary.

This would put a lot of educators and "educational innovators" out of work. But they could always get jobs teaching adult classes to those who drop out of school as kids and later drop back in with a vengeance.

A 'REACTIONARY'
AND PROUD OF IT

Consider the case of Mrs. Patricia Young, a Vancouver (Canada) housewife and a some-time newspaper columnist. She went to a meeting in her hometown recently and heard a left-wing speaker sound off about "reactionaries."

Mrs. Young went home seething. She sat down at her typewriter and produced a rebuttal that is, in its way, a classic, It is being reprinted widely. She speaks for a lot of us when she writes:

Just for the record -- and without apology -- I AM A REACTIONARY! I re-act to sin and sadism, riots and revolution, gutlessness and Godlessness; to philosophies and sophistries which seek to destroy those values which make a country great, and which fashioned the very fabric of civilized mankind.

I re-act to dancing the permissive polka with those who would whirl me all the way to Hell while whispering that "God is Dead'. and that the Devil is nothing but a myth. Yes, I am a reactionary: I re-act to those ministers who would convert my church into a hootenany hall or a political forum.

Yes, I'm a reactionary. I re-act to the emasculation of my Faith in the name of humanistic togetherness; I re-act to those who would seek to destroy my love for the Holy Bible, and my loyalty to the flag, and my esteem for the police.

I re-act to charges that I am personally guilty for other people's failures -- as if I personally poured liquor down the alcoholic's throat, or peddled the heroin, or mugged a little old lady, or created the slums or invented The Bomb!

I re-act to the glorification of the welfare state as a substitute for working for a living. I re-act to stupid kids who turn to pot and away from pink lemonade. Yes, indeed, I am a reactionary: I re-act to those who advocate The Pill instead of purity, and demonstrations instead of dedication, and desire over discipline, selfishness instead of sacrifice. I react to those who constantly prate about "rights" but who don't give a darn what's RIGHT.

I re-act to the portrayal of my friends in America as "fascist beasts", and to those who regard communist dictators as Santa Claus. I react to those who consider love as nothing more than sex, and who contend that "art" is a film showing unmarried couple in bed together. Yes, sir, I re-act to student radicals who preach "peace" in order to promote surrender, and who are so in love with themselves that they would destroy all values except their "right" to be against everything.

I'm a reactionary, yes I am: I re-act to the stupid sentimentality of amateur-do-gooders who like carved wooden monkeys, see no evil, speak no evil, and hear no evil -- even when it runs riot with a shotgun, molotov cocktail or plastic bomb. Oh, do I EVER re-act! I re-act to the phonies who would rewrite Little Red Riding Hood to have her "rehabilitate" the wolf while screaming "hatemonger" at the woodsman coming to her resuce.

You'd better believe I'm a reactionary. In my book, it's time all responsible adults began re-acting instead of suffering the insults, inconveniences and intimidations of a noisy minority who would sacrifice their own freedom -- and ours -- on the altar of atheistic materialism.

If the MAJORITY will just begin re-acting, the kooks and the creeps would soon crawl back under their rocks, and this tired old world would have time to bind its wounds and regain its sense of humour.

Now that the City and School Board elections are over, it causes us to wonder why it is that the ladies who run in the races for city councilmen and for the school borad, run poorly. Is it because the women in the community will not vote for them? Almost every other town that had any women in the races, the ladies, at least one of them, would get elected. The school boards all over the country have at least one lady on it, and of course, I don't know about the councils all over the country. I'm satisfied with the way the election turned out in Sikeston, but it looks to me like the ladies ought to do better. The school board ought to have a lady member, and it wouldn't hurt the council to have a lady member, then it is a good thing that people don't listen to me, they wouldn't want anything like I propose.

EARRINGS BOTHER?

"Oil was discovered on the farmer's land and the first thing he did was hurry to town for a new car. The salesman showed him a classy model for $5,000.

"I am ready to pay cash," said the farmer. "Will I get a discount?"

"Why of course," the salesman replied. "We will give you a 10 per cent discount for cash."

Being unfamiliar with higher mathemathics the farmer said he would think it over and return later.

He walked into a restaurant and over his coffee sat trying to figure what his discount would be. Finally, in desperation, he called the waitress and asked, "If I were to give you 10 per cent of $5,000, how much would you take off?"

Blushing prettily, the waitress whispered, "Would my earrings bother you?"

'JOHNNY HORIZON'
SEEKS VOLUNTEERS
TO COLLECT LITTER

A "Johnny Horizon" cleanup campaign to rid public lands of litter has been launched by the U. S. Department of the Interior.

While designed mainly for public lands administered by the Federal government, the campaign is equally applicable to state and local parks, forests, beaches and streams, according to the Department.

The Johnny Horizon program includes both an educational effort to reduce careless littering and an action program to clean up littered recreational sites and publicly owned and publicly used lands.

Keep America Beautiful, Inc. estimates that removing litter is a $500 million yearly economic burden and that volunteer clean-up efforts can make some of this money available for more productive uses.

BUSINESS LEADER SAYS
'HARD SELL'

People need to be sold upon the importance of the American capitalistic business system, according to a leading industrialist.

E. J. Dwyer, chairman and chief executive officer of ESB, Inc., Philadelphia, Pa., and chairman of the board of the National Association of Manufacturers, told an audience of West Coast business leaders recently that business men themselves must undertake this educational task.

"The need to sell the American people on the importance of the capitalistic business system and the dynamic role of profits in making it preeminent among all systems on the globe has received the benign neglect treatment from most of us," Mr. Dwyer said.

"Among the characteristics that have made our economic system outstanding," he said, "is that it has developed on the principle of serving people. The manager of a business enterprise is now expected to get involved in improving the environmental conditions under which his employees work and enjoy life. He is frequently called upon to provide leadership in providing solutions for education, housing, and equal opportunity, as well as other areas of man's striving to better himself.

"While business' contribution to the betterment of people has been unequalled," the NAM chairman said, "there is no widespread understanding as to what has made this possible.

"First and foremost, of course, it is the business manager's ability to make a profit on the investment others have made in the enterprise," Mr. Dwyer said. "Those detractors of the system who attack profit-making as evil fail to perceive that only by our ability to make a profit can we provide the jobs, enlarge the benefits, and generate the financial means of taking care of other human needs."

TURKS REOPEN PORTS

Naval forces of the United States have been given the green light once agian to visit Turkish ports. The announcement was made in Ankara by Turkish Premier Nihat Erim as he prepared to visit the U.S. He didn't say what he would ask of the government in Washington but part of his statement on reopening the ports to units of the U.S. 6th Fleet is interesting.

He said the Turkish ports could now welcome the Fleet because of a successful crackdown on "Leftist anti-American elements."

"At one time riots instigated by communist propaganda unfortunately prevented such visits," the Premier told a news conference. Why the crackdown was launched earlier is not explained. This statement and the actions of the government do not sound like the Turkish leadership of yesteryear. This apparent fear of the aftermath of communist propaganda bears no relationship to the quality of Turks who stood so valiantly with us in battling communism in Korea.

Communism, through its propaganda, has become a powerful agent in the world, but we of the freedom side are stronger. What we need to do to counter its effect is to tell our story and make it be heard around the world. The ports of the world ought to be open to all commercial shipping and to friendly visits of foreign naval ships. Turkey nor any other nation should let the fear of communist riots close them.

Communist riots can and should be subdued. Some rioting in his country in summers past was attributed to conspirators by responsible police officials. Neither we, nor the Turks, should allow ourselves to be intimidated. HLH.

NEW YORK (AP) — I'm all for equal rights for women, with a single exception. I am perfectly willing-nay, eager-to continue giving my husband exclusive rights in one department: going out to get the Sunday papers.

This is a task that must be performed 52 weeks a year, rain or shine and there seem to be 49 rainy Sundays to three shiny ones. Not only do I dislike going out in the rain, hail, snow, sleet or gloom of morning, but I am prepared to admit that the male is more suited than the female to fetching and carrying New York's hefty pile of Sunday news print.

Of course, going to the corner stationery store to purchase the papers is a minor effort compared with the major problem of getting them read.

By means of a well-researched system, a precise time schedule, a course in speed reading and a 14-hour shift I have managed to eyeball my way through the three massive newspapers we regularly buy on what should be a day of rest.

But now, a Long Island paper has started a Sunday edition, which complicates my modus operandi. The first decision I was faced with upon this newcomer's appearance was where to fit it into the routine. Should I read it first? Should I sandwich it in between Paper A and Paper B and upset a succession of many years' standing? Should I save it for the finale?

When to read it, however, is not as pressing a question as how to get it read at all. In the past I have barely managed to find time to prepare lunch between the travel and entertainment sections of one paper and dinner between the magazine and week in review of another.

There are several possible solutions: 1. get an early start by buying some of the papers Saturday night; 2. read the news in one paper, the editorials in another, the columns in a third and the comics in the fourth; 3. skip the news and read only the ads; 4. don't read them at all but use them in weight-lifting exercises, since those four papers weigh over 12 pounds.

The trouble with the last alternative is that when I have achieved equality with my husband in the muscle department he may insist that I go out and get the Sunday papers myself.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON — The reason Congress has done nothing to stop the Pentagon motor pool from becoming a costly taxi service for bigwigs may be that Members of Congress are some of the principal passengers.

Members of the Armed Services and Appropriations committees are routinely chauffeured about town in military cars. Indeed, the Pentagon maintains special rented Cadillacs for the chairmen.

Even righteous old George Mahon, D-Tex., the hymn-singing House Appropriations chairman, has been unable to resist the temptation of the Pentagon's free limousine service.

Last December, a black sedan hauled the tall Texan to Friendship Airport so he could catch a vacation flight to Puerto Rico. Military regulations, incidentally, forbid trips to Friendship Airport except in emergencies.

Questioned about this, Mahon, who is also chairman of the Joint Committee to Reduce Federal Expenditures, said he didn't know about the regulation and hoped he hadn't violated it. He insisted the ride to the airport was an exception to his normal practice of keeping the military at arm's length.

What makes the chauffeuring of congressmen especially expensive is that the Pentagon has never been able to learn the difference between doing things effectively and doing them efficiently. To make sure congressional passengers reach their destination on time, it is customary for their military drivers to make a rehearsal trip before the scheduled time.

--TEST RUNS--

A car frequently will pull up in front of a congressman's home, pause briefly, then drive to an airport or other location just to find out how long it takes. For example, such a dry run was made last January 2 to the home of Rep. Paul Findley, R-Ill., who needed transportation to the airport so he could take his wife to Russia.

The motor pool made a similar test run for Rep. Don Fraser, D-Minn., who took his wife on the same trip, a junket sponsored by the House Foreign Affairs Committee. The Pentagon also provided the air transportation for Fraser, Findley and the other Foreign Affairs junketters.

While the Pentagon is always willing to provide transportation for congressional potentates, it becomes positively eager to drive them to visit the Pentagon.

Senator Margaret Chase Smith, R-Maine, the ranking Republican on the Armed Services Committee and a constant critic of government waste, has no qualms about being taxied back and forth to a Pentagon breakfast last December 2. The Senator wouldn't talk to us, but a spokesman said there was nothing wrong "inasmuch as the (Pentagon) invited her and provided the courtesy of sending a car."

Representative Melvin Price, D-Ill., the House Ethics chairman, had a somewhat different attitude, however. He was questioned about the time the Army sent two cars to the Rayburn House Office Building to transport him and two other congressmen to the Pentgaon for lunch. "You raise a good point," he told my associate Brit Hume, "but I just don't think the congressmen would be influenced by (free transportation)."

These are just a few examples of the routine chauffeur service that the Pentagon provides Capitol Hill bigwigs. The total amount of money wasted by the Pentagon Garage on the improper use of cars is probably beyond precise calculation. But it runs in the millions.

--SECRET EXODUS--

The Saigon command, in anticipation of a final Communist offensive, began shifting more than 300,000 South Vietnamese peasants from their refugee camps and hamlets to other parts of the war-torn country.

The official explanation was that it will provide refugees new homes away from the fighting. But there is strong evidence the peasants are being evacuated to create a "free-fire" zone of their former habitats for U. S. bombers.

Another concealed aim, apparently, is to move Viet Cong sympathizers out of the northern part of South Vietnam and into other sections where they can be kept under closer watch.

As evidence that the "resettlement" is not just for humanitarian purposes, American pacification officials have been given classified orders to hide the mass exodus.

In December, the secrecy edict went out to pacification bosses throughout Vietnam. It ordered them "to cease discussing, speculating or commenting publicly" on any aspects of the resettlement.

"It is imperative," said the classified order from pacification deputy Richard Funkhouser, that every pacification official be "well aware of this policy and follow it completely."

Another memo, bearing classification stamps on every page, relays a demand for secrecy from Saigon's Minister of State, Dr. Phan Quang Dan.

"Minister Dan fears that ill-advised publicity on these programs could cause enemy efforts designed to disrupt the resettlement, terrorize new arrivals and create embarrassment to the government of Vietnam," states the memo signed by Brig. Gen. James Herbert, a pacification bigwig.

The unusual hush-up by both the United States and Saigon has successfully hidden the exact extent of the enormous, compulsory migration.

However, Minister Dan himself confided recently to an American colleague that the land left behind by the refugees can swiftly be declared a "free-fire zone" where anything that moves can be shot, strafed or bombed.

We also have American memos showing that, instead of moving the refugees to safe spots in the south, as would be done if the move were for totally humanitarian reasons, many are being shifted to Viet Cong sections of the South almost as dangerous as the areas they left.

Footnote: Dr. Johannes Hoeber, senior AID refugee officer, denied the resttlement program was designed to create "free-fire zones" for U. S. bombers and allied troops.

Senate Clears Defender Bill

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — A bill calling for a partial Public Defender System cleared the Missouri Senate Tuesday, 23-4, and headed back to he House.

The Senate reversed its earlier position in trying to solve the problem of providing legal counsel for indigents accused of crimes.

Instead of paying court-appointed attorneys, as recommended early in the session, the Senate accepted a compromise measure which would provide full-time salaried public defenders in heavily populated circuits and selected smaller ones. Court-appointed attorneys would serve with pay on a case by - case basis in other parts of the state.

The system would apply, however, only to felony cases, Habeas Corpus and post-trial proceedings. Misdemeannors and juvenile cases are not covered.

Sen. Paul Bradshaw, RSpringfield, tried again to win Senate support for a full appointive system, but was defeated, 8-19. He did succeed, however, in getting an amendment adopted exempting Greene County from the Public Defender System.

Bradshaw warned that the $1.8 million ceiling on financing the new system would be exceeded before the end of the first year of operation.

The Missouri Supreme Court warned last fall it would no longer require lawyers to serve without — "reasonable pay" after Sept. 1, this year.

The Public Defender System is one of the legislative goals of Gov. Warren E. Hearnes this session.

The bill's sponsor, Sen. Maurice Schechter, predicted the House would accept the Senate bill in its present form.

The Senate also sent back to the House a bill to raise magistrate clerks' salaries statewide by $2,000 a year.

Passed and sent to the governor was a bill to require immunization of school children against Rubella (German) and Rubeola (common) measles, unless parents object on religious grounds. The immunization is directed against the diseases which are responsible for mental retardation.

Sen. Truman Wilson, D-St. Joseph, asked the House to reconsider its action attaching state regulation of Blue CrossBlue Shield health programs to his bill to let minor spouses collect up to $10,000 life insurance benefits without requiring probate action.

Another measure sent to the governor would authorize the state Division of Insurance to fine unlicensed companies doing business in the state up to $5,000.

Returned to the House with minor amendments was a bill to create a Missouri Bicentennial Commission to promote the 200th anniversary of the nation.

Campus Antiwar Protests Erupt

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Campus antiwar protests rekindled by the U.S. bombing of North Vietnam have erupted into violence at Harvard and led to scattered confrontations with police at the University of Maryland.

Demonstrations elsewhere Tuesday were generally peaceful and some drew little response but the reawakening antiwar movement called for student strikes on Friday.

At Harvard about 30 demonstrators split off from a peace march in Cambridge, Mass., to stage a 10-minute assault on the university's prestigous Center for International Affairs.

Police fired at least 15 rounds of tear gas over a two-hour period to disperse a crowd of 1,500 to 2,000 demonstrators who gathered outside the building. Three persons were arrested.

The center, where presidential adviser Henry A. Kissinger formerly had an office, was littered with broken glass and overturned furniture. Slogans such as "Avenge Hanoi" and "NLF Wins" were sprayed on the walls.

A fire set with papers was confined to a second floor office.

The march began with a 4 p.m. rally on Boston Common where President Nixon was burned in effigy. Later the demonstrators marched five miles to Harvard Square in Cambridge where they broke windows in a few stores and a post office before going to the center.

Day-long demonstrations at the University of Maryland resulted in the arrest of 14 persons on charges of assault and carrying deadly weapons — rocks.

Windows were broken in an ROTC building during a rally and later about 500 students blocked U.S. Route 1 for an hour. About 100 riot-equipped state policemen used tear gas and dogs to break up the demonstration.

Police said one lieutenant suffered a broken elbow and several others received minor injuries in the clash. Two tudents were reported injured.

About 1,000 students at Columbia University and Barnard College voted Tuesday night to go on strike starting today but said they would not try to bar others from classes.

Columbia President William McGill appeared before a strike meeting to argue against "coercing others who disagree with you. Coercing others is a violation of people's rights, and we will not tolerate it," he said.

McGill said the Ivy League presidents would hold a telephone conference today to discuss the call for a nationwide campus strike on Friday.

U.S. Shuns Red Talk Offer

PARIS (AP) — The U.S. delegation to the stallsji,ietnam peace talks said today that North Vietnam's proposal to resume the conference offers n3afg$ng in exchange for its demands.

The delegation spokesman, Stephen Ledogar, was commenting in answer to questions on conditions laid down two days ago by the North Vietnamese minister of state, Xuan Thuy, for resumption of the conference.

Thuy said the United States must simultaneously agree to return to regular weekly sessions of the conference and halt air attacks on North Vietnam. Then Politburo member Le Duc Tho would return to Paris and there would be a possibility of secret talks.

The United States indefinitely suspended the peace talks March 23 and said it would be willing to resume them if the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong showed they were prepared to "negotiate seriously."

Both Sides Blamed For Bloody Sunday

LONDON (AP) — Britain's top judge rapped Roman Catholic marchers and British troops alike today for the Bloody Sunday shooting that killed 13 civilians in Londonderry in January.

Appointed by Prime Minister Edward Heath's government to investigate the charges that British paratroopers fired indiscriminately into a crowd of unarmed civilians, Lord Chief Justice Widgery reported that the troops were fired on first but none of the Catholics killed or wounded "is proved to have been shot whilst handling a firearm or bomb."

However, he reported a "strong suspicion that some others had been firing weapons or handling bombs in the course of the afternoon and that yet others had been closely supporting them."

Widgery said the first shot came from a lone sniper using a high velocity weapon. He said some of the soldiers "showed a high degree of responsibility" but the firing by others "bordered on the reckless."

Apportioning blame equally, he commented:

"There would have been no deaths in Londonderry on 30 January if those who organized the illegal march had not thereby created a highly dangerous situation in which a clash between demonstrators and the security forces was almost inevitable," the jurist declared.

"If the army had persisted in its 'low key' attitude and had not launched a large-scale operation to arrest hooligans, the day might have passed off without serious incident."

London newspapers reported earlier today that Widgery's report cleared the army and blamed the guerrillas of the Irish Republican Army.

The killings Jan. 30 enraged Northern Ireland's Roman Catholics and did more than any other single event to cause the British government to take over direct rule of the province, suspending the Protestant provincial government.

Ann Landers

Pregnant Woman Doesn't Appreciate Unkind Words

Dear Ann Landers: I've never read a letter like this in your column. It's time I did. A lot of people need educating.

I am going into my sixth month of pregnancy. I am still working and intend to continue to work for another two months if I can hold out that long. I need the money.

This advice is for the people I work with: I do not need to be told how pale and tired I look. I feel like a dishrag and I know I look like one.

I don't need to be told that I wear my wig a lot and that my own hair, when it is fixed, looks much better. It's easy to wear a wig and it's hard to wash my hair and set it at night after work.

I don't need to hear any more cute remarks such as, "If you've got three months to go, you'll never fit into the elevator." I have listened good naturedly and repeatedly to all the hollow and crude jokes about pregnant women. They weren't very funny the first time.

I don't need to be asked how we can afford a baby and how come I got pregnant so soon. We didn't plan it this way, but we are glad now and it doesn't help much when people put such questions to me. Print this, please --- What's Up Front Counts A Lot.

Dear What's Up: Keep your sense of humor, Petunia. It will see you through when everything else goes belly up --- if you will pardon the expression.

Dear Ann Landers: Sometimes your advice is so dumb I can't believe it. I am only 15 and I know better than you about some things. For example: You told a teen-ager to get her ears pierced by a doctor and not by a girlfriend because "some people are allergic to certain metals and the ears could become infected." So -- if you are allergic to certain metals, your ears will become infected even if a doctor does the piercing.

I know because a doctor pierced my ears and I got a terrific infection. Two of my girlfriends pierced their own ears and they had no trouble at all. Get it? --- Your Critic in Oakland

Dear Critic: Right you are. A doctor can't prevent an infection caused by an allergy but how lucky for you that a doctor did the piercing. When your ears became infected you probably went to him immediately. Had your girlfriend done the piercing you might have delayed, thinking it was "normal" and would clear up by itself.

I repeat. Ear piercing should be a medical procedure, not a do-it-yourself project.

Dear Ann Landers: I just read the letter from the woman who signed herself "Chump." It seems her husband is happiest when they are entertaining but she was fed up with wining and dining people who never asked them back. You told her if her husband wants her to entertain that's reason enough to do it. You blithely ignored her complaint that when she asks him to take her out to dinner or to the theater and he finds out no one has been invited to join them, he says, "Skip it."

Tell me, please, why a wife should play Perle Mesta to an ingrate like that? Perle at least has a staff of servants to do the work. Or she can hire a catering service. And I'll bet Perle doesn't have to borrow bridge chairs and silverware from next door, and then clean up the mess the next morning.

Your answer wasn't very sensible. I say if a husband is that inconsiderate, let him stew in his own juice. --- Nobody's Fool

Dear No: Let him stew in his own juice, eh? Then what will you have besides a stewed husband? Sorry, I'm not about to tell a woman who is making an extra effort to please her husband to stop doing it.

There is a big difference between cold and cool. Ann Landers shows you how to play it cool without freezing people out in her booklet "Teen-Age Sex -- Ten Ways To Coll It." Send 50 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to this newspaper.

Coffee Corner by Cherie

One of these days I'm going to give up cooking and take up tennis. All my friends are out on the courts getting slim and beautiful for the summer on salads and exercise, and I'm home getting fatter and uglier on whip cream and (well I do think running up and down a pair of steps forty times a day should be considered exercise, but unfortunately it seems to be building up instead of taking down). I use to play tennis when I was young and carefree and had time on my hands to do something besides cart kids around or wash clothes; but again, the ensuing years did bring about certain changes in my day to day schedule — I believe you could call it less hours with no fringe benefits. It wouldn't do any good though, I'd probably be so tired getting all my work done so I could go out and play with a free conscience that by the time I'd swatted the ball three times I'd keel over with a coronary! Also, I cook like a lobster in the summer sun and if there's one thing worse than a sunburned broad it's a broad sunburned broad and brother would that ever be me!

If you really want to know the truth of the matter, I can't stand the thought of me bulging out all over in one of those cute little tennis outfits while all the other ladies fit in their's so nicely. Ugh, I need to be young again — and if that ole stinky Charles who's lost twenty pounds says to me one more time, "must be jelly cause jam don't shake like that," I'm going to double up my fist and flatten his flat stomach still flatter!!!

Not Very Agile

Fat people often die from diseases of the heart, arteries or kidneys, but more die from accidents, probably because they are less agile than thin people, according to Encyclopaedia Britannica.

What's The Law

By Jack Strauss, LL. B.

After a whirlwind courtship of only one month, Betty and Freddy got married. Unfortunatley, the marriage went to pot, literally, just as quickly. Betty discovered that Freddy's state of perpetual happiness was due to marijuana and hard drugs and not to marital bliss. Consequently, she started suit to annul the marrige on the grounds of fraud.

"She's not entitled to annulment," protested Freddy in court. "Fraud is when you trick someone into believing something that's not true. Since I have never lied to Betty about anything and I love her, she's got to stay my wife.

"Not on your life," was Betty's answer. "When I go to bed, it's not with a husband, it's with a laughing hyena. And, while it's true that he never lied to me, I never would have married him had I known he was a hophead. Not telling me was just as deceptive as if he had lied to me and, consequently, I'm entitled to my annulment."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you annul the whirlwind marriage?

This is how the judge ruled: YES! The judge held that fraud can be based upon either an affirmative representative or the with-holding of the truth when it should be disclosed. And, in the case of marriage, noted the judge, a prospective spouse has an obligation to disclose any physical or mental condition or behavior that would impair the carrying out or fulfillment of the marital relationship. Study Indicates Child Poisoning Often Suicidal

LOS ANGELES (AP) — An analysis of 1,100 cases of child poisoning indicates that almost 75 per cent were intentional and that more than one-fourth of the poisonings were attempts at suicide, according to a psychiatrist at the University of Southern California School of Medicine.

Dr. Robert Litman, also a co-director of the Los Angeles Suicide Prevention Center, told a meeting of the Children's Bureau of Los Angeles Thursday that "it is estimated that there are more than 100,000 self-poisonings each year in this country involving children between 6 and 17."

Suicidal feelings are triggered in children by a sense of abandonment or desertion by parents, Litman said. Death to youngsters is a vague, symbolic state that appears to promise reunion with father or mother, he added.

Motorists Turn Back On Boy Hailed As Hero

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — Three months ago, the adult world hailed 13-year-old John Renfrow as a hero.

Young Renfrow and a companion were playing in a local park when they spotted a 3year-old boy who had fallen through the ice in a nearby lagoon. They pulled him from the water.

Sunday, John stood along Interstate 80 in western Iowa, waving frantically in an effort to stop passing cars. A few feet away, his father worked in vain to save his mother's life.

"I had the car's four-way flashers on. John was crying and waving his arms. I was giving my wife artificial respiration on the shoulder of the road. Anyone could see it wasn't a setup (for a robbery)" Mr. Renfrow said.

The family was returning from a visit to relatives in Perry, Iowa, Sunday when Mrs. Renfrow, who had undergone four operations in the last two years, including removal of both kidneys, "quivered and slumped forward" in her seat, her husband said.

"A heart attack was mentioned at the scene," Renfrow, an Offutt Air Base bus driver, said.

After several minutes, Renfrow reported, a car stopped. "The man drove in to get a rescue squad but it was too late," Renfrow said.

Perhaps, Mrs. Renfrow was already dead so the minutes didn't make any difference, Renfrow said. She was pronounced dead when a physician and the Adair Volunteer Fire Department rescue squad arrived.

Renfrow said he didn't know how cars passed by, but both lanes were crowded, "it seemed like bumper to bumper."

"People passed us by like we were weeds," Renfrow said.

Summer Welcome For M.U. Frosh

COLUMBIA, Mo. — Students planning to enter the University of Missouri next fall will get a head start again this summer when "Summer Welcome '72" gets underway June 18.

The program consists of 15 two-day sessions in which incoming freshmen are oriented to the university as well as allowed to beat the fall rush to register for classes.

Of last year's program, "Summer Welcome '71," students said: "If anything can help a petrified freshman at UMC, it is this extremely helpful program."

And: "This program is really worth the time and money any student puts in it. I now feel much more confident about coming down for the first few weeks of college life."

"Summer Welcome '72" uses the talents of a large group of carefully selected and specially trained student leaders who can answer the prospective students' questions.

To accommodate all students and parents, 15 two-day sessions are scheduled from June 18- July 14. Students, along with their parents, actually live in UMC dormitories during the sessions.

While students enrolling in larger academic divisions — such as arts and science, agriculture, education and engineering — may enroll in any session, others must attend one of several special sessions.

Session numbers and dates are: 1. June 18-19; 2. June 19-20; 3. June 21-22; 4. June 22-23; 5. June 25-26; 6. June 26-27; 7. June 28-29; 8. June 29-30; 9. July 2-3; 10. July 5-6; 11.July 6-7; 12. July 9-10; 13. July 1--11; 14. July 12-13; 15. July 13-14.

Forestry students may attend sessions 2, 5 and 10; home economics, 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, and 8; Nursing 2, 4, 6; parks and recreation, 13. Arts and science students, which includes pre- business and public administration, pre-journalism, pre- law and pre-medicine, may attend any session.

Only students planning to attend UMC are eligible. This means the prospective student must have completed all admission requirements and have been admitted to UMC.

Book Review

SOUTH OF THE ANGELS
by Jessamyn West
(Avon W316/$1.25
608 pp.)

The untamed land that lures many people today, encouraging them to find satisfaction in working with their hands, is depicted in an earlier era in Jessamyn West's SOUTH OF THE ANGELS.

SOUTH OF THE ANGELS is the fertile, promising tract of land south of Los Angeles that calls forth the adventurous and the enterprising. In the early 1900's this virgin land is opened for development and a host of men, women and children from many parts of the nation begin the trek west to establish a new life that has meaning apart from false values and dehumanizing pressures of civilization.

The many threads of Jessamyn West's tapestry reveal not just America's early pioneers, but the eternal human spirit.

With SOUTH OF THE ANGESLS, Jessamyn West's books — among them EXCEPT FOR ME AND THEE, THE FRIENDLY PERSUASION and four other Avon releases — total over 1,500,000 copies in Avon print.

"There are moments here of such clear insight and such compressed and brilliant expression as make the reader catch his breath in wonder."

COMPOSITION FOR FOUR HANDS
by Hilda Lawrence
(Avon V2427/75c
160 pp.)

COMPOSITION FOR FOUR HANDS is Hilda Lawrence's acclaimed mystery that begins with a beautiful woman's complete paralysis from the shock of finding her son an apparent suicide. Surrounded by her loving husband, relatives and nurses, she gets the finest care that great wealth can provide. But she lives in mortal terror, as she is next on the killer's list. One night, as she lies immobile in bed, she sees four grisly hands writhing at her bedside, trying to frighten her to death.

The New York Times called COMPOSITION FOR FOUR HANDS "A Grade-A shocker. It will inspire hair-raising fear in a genteel, immensely effective way!"

The Prayer from The Upper Room

I may dole out all I possess..., but if I have no love, I am none better. — I Corinthians 13:3.

PRAYER: We thank Thee, our Father, for reconciliation which causes walls to give way to concern, understanding, and good will. Alert our hearts to the tragedy of those who have never been saved from scarcely anything to something much better. In Christ's name we pray. Amen.

In an average healthy young man, fat constitutes about 15 per cent of total body weight, water about 23 per cent, cells or active tissue 58 per cent and bone mineral 4 per cent, according to Encyclopaedia Britannica.

Crismon Appeal Denies

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The U.S. 8th Circuit Court of Appeals has denied an appeal by former Bonne Terre, Mo., banker James B. Crismon on a fraud conviction.

Crismon had been free on bond since Aug. 13, 1971, pending appeal of his conviction in the court of U.S. District Judge John K. Regan.

Regan sentenced Crismon to 10 years in prison on July 16, 1971, on eight counts of fraud and fined him $5,000.

Crismon's appeal was denied Monday.

The indictments charged Crismon, former president of the First State Bank of Bonne Terre, with defrauding the bank of $277,000. Crismon was found guilty of obtaining loans from the bank on false collateral and approving loans for his son without approval of the bank's board.

The Bonne Terre bank was closed by the state of Missouri in August, 1970, for bad loans. It has reopened under new management.

U.S. Atty. Daniel Bartlett Jr., of St. Louis said Crismon was arrested about 9 p.m. Monday at his Bonne Terre home.

Crismon will be returned to St. Louis and probably will be taken to the Federal penitentiary at Terre Haute, Ind., to begin serving his prison term, Bartlett said.

Senate Roll Call On Gas Tax Increase

Court Upholds Loyalty Oath

WASHINGTON (AP) — Led by Chief Justice Warren E. Burger, the Supreme Court today upheld a loyalty oath in Massachusetts that requires all public employes to pledge they will oppose the overthrow of the government by force or violence.

State employes must take the oath or face discharge from their jobs.

Delivering the 4-3 decision, Burger said the oath does not violate First Amendment freedoms since it is no more than a commitment not to use illegal force to change the system.

The three dissenters, Justices William O. Douglas, William J. Brennan Jr., and Thurgood Marshall, protested that the oath flatly violates the freespeech guarantees.

But Burger was able to swing a majority by persuading Justices Potter Stewart and Byron R. White, to join him and Justice Harry A. Blackmun. The two later Nixon administration appointees, William H. Rehnquist and Lewis F. Powell Jr., could not participate because they joined the court two months after the case was argued.

Two years ago a U.S. District Court in Massachusetts found the oath invalid. Chief Judge Bailey Aldrich of the U.S. Circuit Court in Boston said the phrase in which the oath-taker swears or affirms that he will not "oppose the overthrow" of the government was "fatally vague and unspecific."

Appeal Refusal Helps Spotlight Jail Conditions

ST. LOUIS (AP) — A St. Louis attorney says Monday's refusal of the U.S. Supreme Court to hear an appeal in a case involving alleged homosexual rape in a Missouri prison helped to focus national attention on the situation in American jails.

The nation's high court voted eight to one against consideration of the appeal of John Charles Green, a former inmate at the Missouri Training Center for Men in Moberly. His suit had been halded by the American Civil Liberties Union, which asked the court to set up a "bill of rights" for prisoners.

GOP Blames Russia For Continuing War

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican senators blamed the Soviet Union today for the continuing war in Vietnam and the new North Vietnamese offensive.

"The Soviet Union is the principal culprit in this war," said Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., in calling for Senate support of President Nixon's ordering retaliatory air raids.

Sen. Gordon Allott, R-Colo., said the people responsible for delivering tanks and fuel to North Vietnam "are the reckless rulers in the Kremlin."

Goldwater said he will introduce a Senate resolution of support for the President.

He called for the continued bombing of Haiphong, principal North Vietnamese harbor.

The debate was arranged by Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., who called for Nixon to get out of Vietnam or get out of office. Twenty-two senators were scheduled to speak.

Bill Advances For Stronger Auto Bumpers

WASHINGTON (AP) — A bill to set standards for stronger auto bumpers and thus save consumers billions of dollars in accident repairs was approved Tuesday by the House Commerce Committee.

By voice vote, the committee, which had rejected an earlier version 20 to 18, accepted a revamped bill draft by a subcommittee. The legislation contains front-and rear-bumper standards authority under which the Transportation Department would set requirements to protect external sheet metal in low-speed crashes.

No specific figure is designated in the bill, although backers said they envision protection at 5 miles per hour.

A MEXICO ROBBERY

NEW YORK (AP) — Rod Taylor will co-star with John Wayne, Ann-Margret and Ben Johnson in "The Train Robbers," now being filmed in Durango, Mexico.

MRS. EMMA L. AYERS, 804 Harvard, prepares to plant a tulip poplar in her front yard.

Venus Seen At Moon Trip

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP) — The North American Air Defense Command says that a bright light seen above the moon Sunday night posed no threat—it was the planet Venus.

"We've gotten calls from people saying they'd seen antennas on it," a NORAD spokesman said. "It's not so and it's nothing to worry about."

The bright planet was seen by persons in several different parts of the country during the evening hours. In Arizona, some telephone callers feared the moon was breaking up or that an object was about to strike the moon. Others said they thought it was the Apollo 16 spacecraft.

Steele Prison Stands Off Blackwell Attack

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The proposed maximum security prison at Steele, Mo., withstood an assault in the Missouri Senate Tuesday led by Sen. Earl R. Blackwell, D-Hillsboro.

Blackwell tried to amend a routine appropriations bill by striking $500,000 for site preparation at the bootheel area location in Southeast Missouri and effectively halt the project estimated to cost about $11 million when completed.

On a roll call vote, the Senate rejected the amendment 14-19.

Blackwell said he was not contesting the site of the facility, but the need for such a facility. He said, "It simply is not going to work and we will have spent $11 million for nothing."

The maximum security prison was advocated by former State Corrections Director Fred T. Wilkinson, who resigned earlier this year. Wilkinson said hard-core, incorrigible prisoners who refuse to cooperate with any attempts to rehabilitate them undermine the rehabilitation programs for other prisoners who will respond.

Wilkinson proposed a separate facility to confine up to 350 prisoners.

student president, a member of the honor society and won athletic letters.

Dean Bloomfield presented papers at national conventions for five consecutive years after 1958, was author or co- author of sixty- two publications, and held membership in Sigma Xi, scientific society, as well as Gamma Sigma Delta, the American Chemical Society and the American Association of Animal Science.

When he was presented the superior teaching award, Dean Bloomfield was cited as a "dedicated and devoted teacher, a friend and motivator of students, and much respected and sought after advisor.

"Students feel free to bring their problems to him for they know they will receive sound, practical advice.

"His knowledge and understanding of chemistry and a love for teaching, coupled with an innate ability to appeal to students, make him an ideal teacher."

In Dean Bloomfield's memory, a memorial has been established through the University Development Fund which will direct gifts to the agricultural chemistry department. Its use will be determined by an advisory committee composed of Chancellor Herbert W. Schooling, Agriculture Dean Elmer Kiehl, and Professors John R. Campbell and Franklin D. Harris.

Apollo Speeds Toward Orbit Of The Moon

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — The Apollo 16 astronauts, firmly in the grip of lunar gravity, snapped pictures of their cratered target today and sped on toward an afternoon orbit of the moon.

The problems of flaking paint, a locked guidance system, plumbing troubles, a balking dock latch and a faulty radio antenna were behind them and their spaceship was running smoothly.

John W. Young, Charles M. Duke Jr. and Thomas K. Mattingly II awoke an hour early today to begin their own countdown for the engine-firing that would thrust them into orbit to start six days of scientific adventure in the vicinity of the moon.

In midmorning, about 17,900 miles f om that alien world, Mattingly used a camera equipped with special film and filters to take pictures of the moon.

They were not ordinary tourist snapshots, but scientific photos to obtain information on the lunar atmosphere and radiation emitted from the surface.

The moon took gravitational control of Apollo 16 at 12:07 a.m. when the astronauts passed through a so-called "twilight zone" in which the gravitational influence of the earth and moon is equal.

Goldwater said his resolution will be cosponsored by at least 13 other senators. It would condemn the invasion of South Vietnam by North Vietnam, call for the end of North Vietnamese aggression, and support U.S. government policy in seeking "an honorable peace in South Vietnam."

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, DMass., declared $o' unlimited air war over Indochina "can only add heavily, and needlessly to the horrendous human toll that already exists."

"Our national interest does not lie in the continuation of the war," he said. "It does not lie in the further destruction of the countryside in Vietnam, North or South, or Laos or Cambodia.

LILBOURN'S GREG WEEKS takes the throw from pitcher Mitchell Allen in an attempted pickoff play at second base during Tuesday's high school baseball action at Risco. Lilbourn won the battle, 5-0.

SHS Diamond Crew Prepares For Rematch

Coach N. P. McDaniels' baseball team is improving with each game. The Bulldogs made costly errors and fell behind 4-0 after the first two innings but fought back to gain a 5-4 decision over the Jackson Indians Tuesday to extend their baseball record to 4-1 for the season.

"I was pleased that we bounced back after being behind by four runs," said Coach McDaniel. "We started playing some good ball with timely hitting," he continued. "Relief pitcher Mitch Walker did a good job."

Jackson got to Bulldog pitchers, Eddie McDowell and Walker for five hits. The bulldogs collected six hits off Bazzell, who took the loss for the Indians.

Jackson took a 1-0 lead in the firstinning and crossed the plate three more times in the second when the Bulldogs' defense came apart. Walker relieved McDowell in the second and shut out the Indians the rest of the way.

Sikeston came alive in the third and scored two runs to get back in the game. The Bulldogs charged at the Indians in the fourth and plated three runs to take the lead.

The Bulldogs have reeled off four straight wins after taking a 10-1 licking from the Cape Girardeau Central Tigers.

Sikeston will seek revenge against the Tigers at Cape Girardeau Friday afternoon.

"It should be a better ball game," said Coach McDaniel. "We didn't have good pitching then."

The Bulldog coach was undecided about his starter.

Cardinals Blow Lead

PHIladelphia (AP) - Billy Champion came up to the big leagues in 1969, a big, confident kid who felt he could throw his fastball by any hitter alive.

Unfortunately for Champion, the Phillies' staff didn't agree. They didn't think he could threw his fastball through a pane of glass.

So, Champion, a three quarter overhand pitcher was told to throw sidearm, almost submarine. He was instructed to develop a sinker and forget the fastball that had made him a major league prospect, a No. 3 pick in the June, 1965 draft.

Champion didn't agree with the change.

"But who was I to tell them it was right or wrong," Champion said last night after beating the St. Louis Cardinals with a guess what-fastball. "Here I was my first year in late that leagues. For the moment I thought it was best."

Well, it wasn't best as later events proved. Champion couldn't win as a sidearm sinker ball pitcher. He bounced between the Phillies' farm team at Eugene, Ore. and the parent club.

When Frank Lucchesi took over as Phillies manager, he decided that Champion should go back to his natural style. It wasn't that easy. It took almost two years for the 6-foot-4 right-handed to revert to himself on the mound.

He began to come along late that season.

Tuesday night Champion pitched 8 2-3 strong innings in a 6-3 victory over the Cardinals. He gave up only seven hits, walked three and struckout seven. Only two of the three runs were earned.

"Mainly he challenged the hitters with his fastball," said Phillies' pitching coach Rip Rippelmeyer. "I know he was told by some people that he didn't throw hard enough. But there is no doubt in my mind that he has a major league fastball."

St. Louis took a 2-0 lead after three innings. Joe Hague's double and a two out single by rookie Ed Crosby scored a run in the second off Champion. A single and two walks loaded the bases in the third and another run scored on the passed ball.

Lakers Take Lead

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Now Bill Sharman is talking about a six-game series as his Los Angeles Lakers have the defending champion Milwaukee Bucks on the ropes in the National Basketball Association playoffs.

The Lakers ran away from the Bucks 115-90 Tuesday night by rebounding—literally—from the 114-88 beating suffered Sunday in Milwaukee.

The best-of-seven Western Conference series moves back to Milwaukee Saturday with the Lakers leading 3-2.

"I've said all along that rebounding will decide the series," said Sharman in a hoarse voice after Wilt Chamberlain & Co. grabbed 23 more missed shots than Kareem Abdul-Jabbar and the Bucks, 7057. "And if we can outrebound them Saturday, we can end the series in six games."

Game No. 7, if the Bucks win Saturday, will be played next Wednesday night in the Forum, where there would be another sellout crowd of 17,505.

The partisan fans chanted "defense, defense" and "rebound, rebound"—apparently taking Sharman's cue. The coach had called for more vociferous support on the plane ride back from Milwaukee Sunday.

"It is easier to get up for this game than on Sunday," said Chamberlain, who made all eight of his free throws, a remarkable achievement for the 7-foot-2 veteran considered one of the league's worst free throwers. He finished with 26 rebounds and 12 points.

In all, the Lakers converted 35 of 44 free throws, including 19 of 22 in the third period when they broke things open. It was 55-51 Lakers early in the third period but Gail Goodrich led the spurt to a 23-point lead with a 13-point quarter.

The Celtics lost the opener at home 116-94, then dropped No. 2 106-105 at Madison Square Garden.

Owens Master Of No-Hitter

BERNIE — Chuck Owens fired the second no-hitter in Southeast Missouri high school baseball season. The smoke throwing righthander handcuffed the Bloomfield Wildcats, 11-1 Tuesday.

The only run the Wildcats could muster came on an error by the Mules' defense. It spoiled the shutout. Owens struck out 12 and walked three.

Owens has teamed with Dell Walker, a lefthander, to allow only one earned run in 32 innings of pitching this season. The Mules have scored 40 runs while giving up eight in six game.

Bloomfield was never in the game. The Wildcats committed five errors. Losing pitcher Baldwin gave up seven hits.

Bernie took a 1-0 lead in the first inning. That turned out to be all it needed to record its fifth win against no losses. The Mules crossed the plate again in the second and hit the jackpot in the fourth, scoring eight runs. The Mules added their final run in the fifth.

David Baker and Don Daugherty contributed doubles for Bernie with Derrell Carson getting a three-bagger for the Mules.

The Panthers put seven hits together with a couple of errors to score five runs. Risco was never able to score against Allen.

Neither team could do much until the third when the Panthers put a hit together with two costly miscues to score two runs and take the lead.

Patterson, who was the losing pitcher,. shut the Panthers out from the third until the seventh when Lilbourn put two hits together to score its final three runs.

Centerfielder Pat McClarty and Allen got the runs batted in.

Rightfielder John Taylor had a double for the Panthers and the game's only extra base hit. The Panthers are 2-1 for the year and 1-1 in conference play.

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Cosmos today appointed John Young, a native of Scotland, to the post of assistant to Coach Gordon Bradley. Young played halfback with the Cosmos last season during their initial North American Soccer League campaign.

Clive Toye, general manager and vice president of the Cosmos, also announced the signing of Jorge Siega, the Brazilian-born forward who last year was voted the team's Most Valuable Player by the Soccer Writers and Broadcasters Association.

McLain Sharp

OAKLAND (AP) — Everyone was worried about Denny McLain except Denny McLain.

He made his debut a successful one Tuesday night as the Oakland Athletics defeated the Kansas City Royals 3-2 with the aid of home runs by Mike Epstein and Dave Duncan.

McLain, obtained in a trade with the Texas Rangers, pitched poorly in all three spring training appearances, including one in which he gave up 10 runs.

Against the Royals he allowed eight hits but no earned runs in the little more than seven innings he pitched. He threw only 88 pitches.

"I've always been a terrible spring training pitcher," McLain said.

McLain was happiest about his control. He walked none and struck out two. "Usually I can't get the ball over the plate until about May 1," he said.

He admitted he can't throw as hard as he did in 1968 when he won 31 games for Detroit.

Manager Dick Williams of the A's also was pleased with McLain's first effort.

"He was better than I expected," Williams said.

Duncan's homer, his second of the season, broke a 2-2 tie in the seventh inning and handed the defeat to Mike Hedlund. Hedlund also gave up the homer to Epstein. The other Oakland run came on a balk.

Kansas City scored both its runs on a single by Bobby Floyd following an error and a double by Jerry May.

The defeat was the first in four games for Kansas City. Oakland has won two out of three.

Giants Lose McCovey

BERNIE'S RANDY PALMER slides into third base safe during baseball action at Matthews Monday afternoon. The Pirates' third baseman is David Lape. Bernie won, 10-0.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The ball skipped off John Jeter's bat toward shortstop Chris Speier. It looked like a certain double play for the San Francisco Giants.

Speier scooped the grounder and pitched to Tito Fuentes, who stepped on second for one out and fired to first. Right after he let the ball go, the second basemen wished he hadn't. It cost the Giants their star first baseman, Willie McCovey.

McCovey, diving forward trying to snare Fuentes' wild toss, broke his right arm in a collision with Jeter and was knocked out long before the Giants won a 5-1 baseball game over the San Diego Padres Tuesday night.

There's no way we can replace a Willie McCovey," said San Francisco Manager Charlie Fox. "But there's no use crying over spilled milk. Injuries are part of the game."

A doctor estimated that it would take six weeks for the fracture to heal and surmised it could be at least two months before the slugger returned to the lineup.

In the other games Tuesday, the Chicago Cubs beat the Pittsburgh Pirates 6-4; the Houston Astros topped the Cincinnati Reds 8-4; the Los Angeles Dodgers trimmed the Atlanta Braves 3-1; the Philadelphia Phillies turned back the St. Louis Cardinals 6-3 and the Montreal Expos pounded the New York Mets 7-2.

The Giant dressing room was subdued after victory because the players obviously felt it was much too costly.

McCovey, 34, was the National League's Most Valuable Player in 1969 when he hit a career-high of 45 home runs. The strapping lefthander was limited to 18 home runs last year because of a knee injury that kept him out more than one-third of the season. He returned toward the end of the year to help the Giants win the West Division title.

San Francisco got home run power from Bobby Bonds and Fran Healy to beat the Padres. Bonds delivered a two-run blast and Healy drilled a three-run shot.

Billy Williams unloaded a three-run homer and Jose Cardenal smashed a two-run job to pull Chicago over Pittsburgh and spoil the Pirates' home opener before a near-capacity crowd of 47,489.

Tommy Helms and John Edwards, a couple of ex-Reds, and Doug Rader, Houston's young redhead, helped the Astros top Cincinnati. Helms and Edwards each knocked in two runs and Rader snapped a 4-4 tie with a sixth-inning homer.

Helms hit a two-run homer off Don Gullett, who was his teammate just last year.

Jim Lefebvre rapped a tworun single and Chris Cannizzaro hit a solo home run as Los Angeles beat Atlanta

Wood Gets Backing

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Pensions are one thing, but if the major league baseball players ever strike for a shorter work week, Wilbur Wood is in big trouble.

Chicago's veteran knuckleball artist thrives on action and proved it Tuesday night when he shut out Texas 14-0 on a three-hitter. The complete game came just two days after Wood had hurled 8 2-3 innings for no decision in Chicago's post-strike opener.

A normal rest span for a pitcher is three days between starts and many need four days off to recover from the strain of nine innings work. Four days off would be like a summer vacation for Wood.

In other American League action Tuesday, New York blanked Milwaukee 2-0, Boston downed Cleveland 4-2, Detroit topped Baltimore 5-3, Oakland trimmed Kansas City 3-2 and California blanked Minnesota 20.

Wood is used to plenty of pitching. He worked 334 innings last year when he won 22 games for the Sox. Wilbur is able to pitch more frequently than other hurlers simply because the knuckler puts very little strain on his arm.

His two starts in four days were complete opposites for Wood. The Sox couldn't score for him on Saturday but busted loose Tuesday with a 15-hit attack that included a homer, two singles, a double and six runs batted in for Carlos May.

Steve Kline's three-hitter gave the Yankees their first victory with Horace Clarke's three hits leading New York past Milwaukee.

Clarke drove in the first Yankee run with a third inning single and Johnny Callison's sacrifice fly delivered the other in the fourth.

Jeff Jackson Does It All

ORAN — Sophomore Jeff Johnson supplied about everything the Kelly Hawks needed to down the Eagles Tuesday, 4-1 in a Scott-Miss league baseball game.

Jackson fired a two hitter, smashed a triple to go along with his four for four at bat and batted in three of the four runs the Hawks scored.

The loss was the first for the Eagles to go with four wins. Oran is 3-1 in league play after the setback. The Hawks are 3-2 with all their games in league play. Jackson has won all three.

Oran took a 1-0 lead in the first inning but starter and loser Rick Irwin was unable to hold the Hawks in the third. Kelly crossed the plate twice to take a 2-1 lead. Jackson knocked in two of his three runs batted in fourth with a single. Kelly scored the final two runs.

Kelly takes on Notre Dame in a non-league game Wednesday afternoon.

Hayti Displays Hitting Power

SENATH — The Hayti Indians outslugged the Lions 15-8 in a baseball game Tuesday.

Randy Gardener relieved Verdia Kuykendall in the third inning and picked up the win for Hayti. Greg Gillette was the losing pitcher.

Parker Morgan smacked a home run for Hayti and Greg Gilette had a round tripper for Senath-Hornersville. Gillette batted in three runs and Morgan had three runs batted in for Senath.

Hayti belted out 11 hits. The Lions collected six in getting eight runs.

Both teams crossed the place five times in the second inning. Senath added two more in the third to lead 7-5. Hayti battled back to tie the score in the fourth but Senath regained the lead in the frame, 8-7.

The rest of the game belonged to Hayti. Senath pitching gave way to the hitting of the Indians. Hayti scored three runs in each of the fifth and sixth innings and added two more in the seventh.

Senath-Hornersville has a 1-3 record.

It added one more in the third and two more in the fifth.

Scott Thomas had a double for the game's only extra base blow. Thomas also collected another single to be the only player to get more than one hit. Thomas was the big runs batted in man for the Red Devils. The big first sacker sent four across the plate.

Law To Require Two-Car Garage

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — The two- car garage, once a symbol of affluence, will be required by law under new zoning ordinances in Green Township.

The garages must be included in all new homes in 11 of the township's precincts beginning this week.

City fathers say they want to reduce on-street parking on narrow subdivision streets.

A contract for an addition to the present power plant building was awarded to the Roy Owens construction Company at a cost of $50,150. This will be paid for from Board of Public Works funds.

Storm Warning System Developed

MALDEN — Six- county area mayors, law enforcement officials, civil defense personnel, radio station owners and managers recently attended a meeting at the Bootheel Regional Commission's office to develop an "Early Storm Warning System" for the Bootheel.

The 38 officials attending agreed that a central reporting system could be established, but the most difficult problem would be finding an effective alerting system. An alerting process to inform citizens of an approaching tornado during the late night hours and early morning still plague the concerned citizens.

Bill Wellborn, Research Analyst of the Bootheel Regional Planning Commission, said, "Each year tornados pose the greatest potential danger to life and property in the Bootheel. To meet this perennial threat, we invited H. W. Waldheuser, Meterologist with the U.S. National Weather Service, Lambert Field, St. Louis, to assist us in developing a storm warning system."

Waldheuser expressed the desires of the U. S. National Weather Service, to assist in alerting storm plagued Bootheel citizens of approaching tornados.

Wellborn suggested in addition to a network of storm spotters, a "hot line" should be opened direct from the U. S. National Weather Service headquarters in St. Louis to Malden from which weather warning information could be disseminated to the six- county sheriff's departments and civil defense directors. Once in the hands of the County Civil Defense Directors, this warning would be passed on to schools, hospitals, etc. by telephone, and to the general public by means of sirens. Wellborn went on to say, this hot line could prove particularly valuable after midnight when most people have their radios and televisions turned off.

Rick Wiethan, owner of Radio Station KTCB in Malden said, "Most radio stations in the Bootheel could return to the air and broadcast warnings after normal sign off if a severe weather bulletin is issued thru this hot line.

Wellborn concluded by saying, coordination between Bootheel cities and counties will be the key to the successful operation of an early storm warning system and the BRPC is prepared to extend any effort necessary to effect such coordination.

McMahon Leaves Marriage Years Wife After 27

NEW YORK (AP) – Ed McMahon, the television personality and Johnny Carson's sidekick on NBC's "Tonight" show, has left his wife of 27 years.

A spokesman for Mrs. McMahon on Monday described her as "devastated" and the couple's four children as "very hurt."

The spokesman said McMahon has decided to live alone in California when Carson moves his late night talk show from New York to Burbank next month.

Sources close to the family said McMahon had told his wife Alyce that he was "trapped by success" and, as a result, was never at home anyway.

The spokesman said McMahon has hired a lawyer to arrange a separation but Mrs. McMahon hadn't sought legal counsel yet. McMahon had no comment.

SCIENCE IN YOUR LIFE

Women may be an essential part of a fair jury trial. You read a few months ago in this column about the research of Dr. Jonathan Freedman of Columbia University and the problems of crowding.

Now, in The Sciences magazine, Paul Ehrlich of Stanford and Freedman report on work with groups in small and large rooms for lengthy periods. The test groups served as mock juries for taped courtroom cases, then completed questionnaires evaluating their companions and the experience as a whole.

All-female juries judged the experience more favorably and were more lenient jurors in a small room; all-male juries reacted more positively in larger spaces. But in mixed male-female groups, the degree of crowding had no apparent effect on men, women, or the group as a whole.

Drs. Ehrlich and Freedman conclude that, "All-male juries or cabinets or international conferences should probably be avoided, or at least be given spacious quarters. Better still, women should be included, not only to give them equal representation, but because apparently any negative effects from crowding disappear when the sexes are mixed."

Vacuum packaging has no significant influence on tenderness, flavor, or juiciness, of beef. However, it does cut the germ count significantly for vacuum packaged portions compared to non-packaged portions. And, vacuum packaging greatly reduces the weight loss during aging.

Since we are getting more and more vacuum-packed meats at the supermarkets, food scientists Daniel Minks and William C. Stringer of the UMC College of Agriculture made the tests which led to the above conclusions.

A taste panel tenderness score indicated that meat which was aged with no packaging was the least tender in this test. All things considered, the vacuum packaged beef holds substantial advantages for the supermarket shopper.

We have all heard encouraging reports of the effectiveness of methadone treatment of heroin addiction. Now it appears that babies are being born with methadone addictions.

A doctor at Washington, D.C., General Hospital, Vartolome Javate, reports that 23 babies who have been born to methadone addicted mothers showed symptoms of methadone withdrawal. They were irritable, twitched violently, and had cold sweats. Hospital treatement to free them from the effects of methadone lasted up to 90 days.

Was it an attempt at humor or a solemn declaration that certain government offices are becoming more logical in thinking and sequence of operation? In response to persistent questions about the site of the future three-million dollar Very Large Array Telescope, Presidential science adviser Edward E. David, Jr., replied calmly that a site would be selected prior to the commencement of construction.

If we had more moisture in our timber areas we might have more or taller trees. Lack of soil moisture commonly limits tree growth in timbered areas of Missouri, said David L. Sims and Gene S. Cox, of the College of Agriculture's School of Forestry. Of the total rainfall on the forest, they point out, only a portion reaches the soil.

The canopy of leaves and branches intercepts nearly a fifth of the water that falls on the forest. The litter of accumulated leaves and twigs at the base of the trees hold nearly 10 per cent of the total fall. We can see then that even under the best of conditions the trees' roots are receiving only about two thirds of the water that falls on the forest.

Water Project Awaits Final Approval

HAYTI — "The new water system should be turned over to us (the city) very shortly now, perhaps within a week," E. H. Webb, Hayti city clerk, said Tuesday, and so a water system project, begun by a vote in August of 1970, is about complete.

"Odds and ends at the treatment plant, such as getting leaks stopped, are all that remains to be done, Webb said.

The $400,000 water system, when approved, will include 14,000 feet of transmission lines, a 150,000 gallon storage tank, a new well, and a new treatment plant. Approval must come from Russell and Axon Engineers, St. Louis.

On August 17, 1970, voters overwhelmingly approved a $400,000 revenue bond issue for a new water system in a special city election by a vote of 264 for the proposal and 17 against it.

Construction then began the first of April, 1971. When approved, the new water system will have taken a little over a year to complete.

"We've had minor delays," Webb said, "but nothing unusual." He said there were always delays on any job, especially with getting materials.

Hayti Mayor Harry Dowdy said "it's the little delays that keeps putting off the opening of the system." He mentioned that he was "real pleased" with the system.

Contractors for the water system were Brauson Construction Company Inc., St. Louis, who laid the transmission lines; Universal Tank and Iron Work, Indianapolis, Ind., who erected the storage tank; Lohr Brothers, Columbia, Ill., who installed the water well; and L. and T. Construction Co., Grand Rivers, Ky., who build the treatment plant.

Webb noted that the new treatment plan would have a 600 gallon per minute capacity. The old plan had a capaicty of 300 gallons per minute and "It got overtaxed."

Webb concluded that because of the new water system, "we shouldn't have any more problems with the water and it is a big enough system to take care of a growing city for many years."

K.C. Man Pays School Tax Twice In Reverse Protest

KANSAS CITY (AP) – In what he described as a protest against protest, a retired Kansas Citian said Sunday he was paying his school taxes twice.

Everett Craighead handed a check to the treasurer of the city school district and said it was for more than $100.

Craighead said he took the action in protest against the device of paying taxes under protest used by supporters of private schools.

"Public schools are the most American of any American institution," he said.

Chrysler Says First Quarter Sales Tripled

DETROIT (AP) — Chrysler Corp. reported Monday its earnings in the first three months of this year more than tripled on record sales.

The nation's No. 3 automaker reported a profit of $35.8 million, or 70 cents per share in the three months ended March 31, compared with $10.8 million, or 22 cents a share, in the same period last year.

The profit came on worldwide sales of $2.2 billion, up 19 per cent from $1.8 billion last year and an all-time record for the quarter.

Irish Bombings Turn Pets Into Nervous Wrecks

BELFAST (AP) — Northern Ireland's repeated bombings are turning domestic pets into nervous wrecks, the Ulster Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals said today.

Mrs. [May Pitt, society secretary, said dogs and cats in the battle areas frequently turn vicious.

"People move out of their homes after a bomb blast," she said, "and their first thought is for human life.

"But when they return they often find that their dog has wandered off and turned wild.

"We find a lot of these animals on the streets and many others are brought in to us for treatment. A human being can understand these troubles, but you can't explain an explosion to a dog."

Mrs. Pitt said the number of cases at the society's Belfast clinic had doubled over the past two years of the Irish Republican Army's guerrilla campaign for a united Ireland.

Society vans have been shot at and stoned by hooligans, sometimes on being lured into trouble spots by hoax calls.

Historical House Being Restored At Bloomfield

BLOOMFIELD — The Stoddard County Historical Society has begun work restoring an 82-year-old log house built originally by Mr. and Mrs. Morton Barnett north of Circle City. The building was donated by Ted Davis of Hunterville.

The house, built from poplar logs, features four rooms and is two stories high, containing breezeway through the center.

The house originally had a rived roof. The society is hand-making a heavier one. It hopes to add fireplaces at each end.

The house will be taken apart log by log and moved to the Bloomfield City Park, whee it will become a permanent display and exhibit site.

Joe Brown of Hunterville, member of the Society, said that "there are several log houses left in the area but are usually in pretty bad shape. The ones left in good shape are generally those housed later inside of other buildings."

The Society has published a book titled "History of Stoddard County", and is in the process of compiling a cemetery list. It will contain all the marked graves in the county that could be found by the members.

During the last year's Bloomfield Homecoming members presented attractions from the past. One member demonstrated the making of wool thread and sheared sheep to begin the process. Boards were rived demonstrating the making of shingles as is being done on the Barnett home.

MR. AND MRS. MORTON BARNETT appearing years ago before the home being restored by the Stoddard County Historical Society. The log house will be moved by the members to the Bloomfield City Park.

Billboards Being Inspected In State

JEFFERSON CITY — Action on Missouri's billboard law moved this week from the legislative halls onto the state's roadsides as Missouri State Highway Department personnel began the task of implementing the newly-enacted measure.

Department Chief Engineer Robert N. Hunter said today that Department personnel already were on the highways updating a 1966 Department inventory of billboards.

"This inventory will give us a record of signs along our Primary system," Hunter said, "as well as showing any changes made in signs since our original inventory about six years ago."

The job will take about a month to complete, he said. It will be done with regular Department personnel.

Hunter said also that the Department was evaluating and reviewing applications for sign permits through its ten district offices. Arrangements for handling the permits were explained at a district engineers' meeting last week to assure state- wide uniformity, Hunter said. Under the act, the Department must issue permits and identification tags for lawful billboards which were in existence prior to March 30, the effective date of the act.

Owners will have 90 days in which to apply for a permit, Hunter said.

Some signs, such as those which are obsolete, not in good repair, or are mounted on trees or painted on rocks, etc., are not eligible for permits.

Fees for legal billboards will be $5 for those having less than 300 square feet and $10 for those with more than 300 square feet. Similar charges will be assessed for biennial inspections to see that the signs meet requirements of the law.

Hunter said the permit fees will be deposited in a separate account under the state road fund.

After the new inventory is completed and permits issued for all lawful structures, Hunter said, the department will start the task of determining which signs must come down and the value of them.

Billboards and property owners will be notified by the Highway Commission if their billboards are unlawful.

Ford Recalls Most Torinos And Montegos

DETROIT (AP) — Ford Motor Co. announced Monday it is recalling nearly 400,000 Ford Torinos and Mercury Montegos—virtually the entire 1972 model run of the popular intermediate-size cars—to correct a defect which could allow rear wheels to come off the car.

Gordon H. Robertson, service engineering manager of Ford's Customer Service Division, said the company has received reports of rear axle bearing deterioration caused by a variety of factors. In extreme cases, Robertson said, the condition could lead to an axle shaft coming detached.

Missouri Escapee Is Denied Hearing

WASHINGTON (AP) — A 19year-old convicted burglar who said escape is the only way to avoid homosexual rape in prison was refused a hearing today by the Supreme Court.

By an 8 to 1 vote the court turned down the appeal of John Charles Green, an inmate in the Missouri Training Center for Men in Moberly.

Green claimed he was assaulted twice by knife-wielding fellow prisoners and that both times he feigned suicide as a way of alerting prison authorities but was told he could either submit, fight back or escape.

Justice William O. Douglas voted to hear the appeal.

Green, who is white, said that on April 14, 1967, he was told by five black prisoners that he would be beaten if he did not submit again that same night.

Green said he escaped from the prison to avoid the attack. He was picked up by state police the next morning only a few miles from the prison.

A county Circuit Court convicted Green of escape from the prison and sentenced him to three more years in jail.

His appeal was subsequently turned down by the Missouri Supreme Court, which said Green was not being pursued at the time of his escape and ruled that he had not made a sufficient effort to complain to the courts about the attacks.

In his appeal, Green said that "The fact that a slightly built 19-year-old prisoner could be raped by groups of roving inmates and was repeatedly denied protection by prison authorities bespeaks the most shameless denial of due process and equal protection under the 14th Amendment."

Senate Panel Okays $2.20 Wage Minimum

WASHINGTON (AP) — With no opposition from Republican members, the Senate Labor subcommittee has approved a bill providing a $2.20-per-hour minimum wage, higher than the Nixon administration wants.

The subcommittee sent the bill to the Labor Committee Tuesday without a dissenting vote.

The bill provides $2 minimum two months after enactment, and a $2.20 figure a year later for all workers covered by minimum wage laws before 1966. For those coming in after 1966, it provides $1.80 within two months of enactment, $2 a year later and $2.20 a year after that.

The White House wants the present $1.60 floor raised to $2 through 1974.

The bill would also bring under the law more than six million additional workers besides the 45 million now covered.

Children Need To Learn Bike Rules

JEFFERSON CITY — Youthful bicycle riders will soon be out in numbers on Missouri roads. With this in mind, Colonel E. I. (Mike) Hockaday, the Superintendent of the Missouri State Highway Patrol, today reminded parents of their responsibility to teach children the rules for safe bicycle riding.

"The use of bicycles for transportation and recreation is steadily increasing," Hockaday noted. "It is important, therefore, that parents teach their youngsters all the safe riding rules. For example, young cyclists should be instructed on the proper signals for turns. They should be impressed with the need for keeping to the righthand side of the road and riding in single file if in a group."

Colonel Hockaday noted that it is also important that a bicycle be in good mechanical condition. Parents should see that worn parts are replaced as soon as detected. He pointed out that a mechanical failure on a bicycle, like on an automobile, can cause a serious accident.

"Bicycle riders have the same active responsibility in traffic as drivers of motor vehicles," the Colonel continued. "Parents can install this feeling of responisbility in their children by instruction and example."

Insurance Law Ruled Invalid

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — The Illinois Supreme Court declared Monday that the state no fault automobile insurance law is unconstitutional because it discriminates against accident victims not covered by the new type of "first persons" policies provided under the measure.

The court also held the law unconstitutional on grounds it abridges the right of a jury trial in some cases and violates a ban on fee officers in the judicial system by requiring arbitration of some disputes.

Washington Report by Senator Symington

WASHINGTON, D.C.— During a time of extensive Senate floor debate, action has been taken in various Senate committees on a number of proposed legislative measures.

LAOS. As Chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Subcommittee on Security Agreements and Commitments Abroad, I recently held hearings to consider the relationship between the activities of the Agency for International Development (AID—, the CIA and the Department of Defense in Laos.

Representatives from AID and the Department of State were present at the meeting.

In a March 21 letter to Dr. John Hannah, Administrator-for AIR, I requested the hearings be held to discuss various questions which had surfaced recently in the press regarding the use of AID in Laos as a cover for CIA personnel and programs.

DRUGS. The Senate Armed Services Subcommittee on Drug Abuse has completed hearings on several proposals to expand treatment and rehabilitiation programs for men and women who have been found to be drug dependent or drug users while serving in the Armed Services.

One legislative proposal would require treatment for drug dependent service members up to 30 days. Another would authorize those who would volunteer for medical treatment to be exempted from such disciplinary action that would otherwise arise as a result of the serviceman being identified as drug dependent. Still another proposal would expand veterans' treatment programs to prior drug dependent service personnel regardless of the nature of their discharrge.

The Subcommittee will now consider and make a recommendation to the full Committee for a bill to bring before the Senate.

VETERANS. The Senate Veterans Affairs Subcommittee on Readjustment, Education and Employment has recently held hearings on a number of bills designed to increase educational opportunities for returning veterans.

The bills propose to increase educational assistance payments, which currently include assistance in meeting costs for tuition, books and other supplies.

Educational assistance is also offered to wives or widows, and children, of veterans who have died or are permanently suffering from service- connected disabilities.

Additional hearings on the bills are scheduled in the latter part of April.

DR. LAWRENCE E. LAMB

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb—I have a heart problem that was brought on by a fractious gallbladder removed after a week's delay due to the heart's unstable condition. I suffered two serious attacks and my case was considered very serious. My doctor is very good and gives me periodic checkups and he tells me I have made a remarkable recovery, but I would like to know more.

At my age, 82, I feel that there are things I would like to do, such as a two-day trip or more in the mountains (not climbing) above the 8,000 feet limit. I do not have any heart pains, but I have herpes zoster in my chest and arthritis in my neck.

I know you can't diagnose my case by remote control, but since I have no heart pain and desire to do things, I believe I will grow stronger if I do them instead of sitting and admiring four walls. What do you think?

Dear Reader—I am all in favor of people remaining moderately active as long as they can. It is one of the things that makes living enjoyable and probably prolongs life and health. Of course I don't know how much heart trouble you have really had from your letter so it is difficult for me to be very specific. It sounds to me like you are able to walk around comfortably and get around in your usual environment. I note that you live in Colorado and apparently already live at some elevation of altitude. This may make it easier for you to visit higher altitudes than someone who lived at sea level.

In general for people who live at sea level, I feel that they should not go to altitudes higher than 5,000 feet. If they have any significant heart trouble. If it is necessary for them to go to altitudes higher than this, they should proceed cautiously and not try to combine these events with fishing or hunting or other forms of increased physical activity that is not within their usual daily level of activity. After a week at higher altitudes, it is safer to increase one's level of physical activity.

I suppose if you already live at an altitude approaching 5,000 feet, that up to 8,000 feet wouldn't make too much difference, but at any time you go to a significant increase of altitude above your usual living quarters, I would strongly recommend that you take it easy initially.

Even at 82 I am sure that someone with your enthusiasm can find a lot of things to do without going to significantly higher altitudes.

More Than $200,000 In Taxes Collected

JEFFERSON CITY — Secretary of State James C. Kirkpatrick announced that through the efforts of his office over $200,000 has been collected in delinquient corporate franchise taxes since January 1. The money has been collected from corporations which had failed to pay their taxes prior to the December 31st deadline.

Kirkpatrick attributed the record amount of money collected to a letter from his office alerting corporations of their delinquency, and threatening them with forfeiture of their corporate charters.

Kirkpatrick warned the remainingdelinquent corporations are immediate danger of having their charters forfeited and losing all right to do business in Missouri.

"On January 1, the Missouri Department of Revenue certified to our office a list of mroe than 8,000 corporations which had not paid their franchise tax," Kirkpatrick explained. "We believed this was an unintentional oversight by most of the corporations. So, rather than forfeit their charters immediately, we notified them of their delinquent status and urged them to pay their taxes and panalties. I felt it would have been unreasonable to take away a man's license to do business without further notification and require him to pay $50 to be reinstated without a chance to correct the oversight. It would have also caused an impossible heavy burden on our office to forfeit all those chargers and then have to go through the rescission process as soon as the taxes were paid.

"The response by the businessmen has certainly proved us right. As of April 7, over $213,152.19 has been collected and only a few corporations remained delinquent for failure to pay their taxes. We are grateful for the cooperation we have gotten from the businessmen.

"We plan now to move to collect the taxes from the reamining delinquent corporations or forfeit their charters.

Kirkpatrick observed, "At a time when state government is so badly pressed for funds, it is heartening indeed to dollect this amount of money at so little expense to the taxpayers. One letter has produced over $200,000 and saved the Department of Revenue from having to institute time consuming legal actions. Missouri taxpayers can be sure that we are making every effort to see that all corporations pay their taxes and any penalties for delinquency."

Museums Organization Formed

COLUMBIA — A new museums organization with aims of statewide communication and improvement of facilities has been formed at the University of Missouri.

The first meeting of the Missouri Museums Association will be April 15 at the Hotel Frederick in Boonville. Speaker will be Mrs. Warren E. Hearnes, well known for her interest in state cultural and historic activities and her interest in the restoration of the Governor's Mansion in Jefferson City.

MMA published its first newsletter in which a partial list of bylaws included the maintenance of "lines of communication between members, to discuss problems of their institutions and to foster inter- institutional services." Chairman of the bylaws committee is Richard Nolf, director of the St. Joseph and Pony Express Museums. Co- editors of the newsletter are Alden Redfield, director, and Margaret Marshall Coats, assistant cirector of the UMC Museum of Anthropology.

To be published quarterly, the newsletter will include works by students of UMC museum classes, will stress useful ideas and provide reviews of books and articles of importance to museum workers. One article on security is scheduled for the next issue, with a checklist of 18 points which should be considered in protecting museum collections. Contributions from members for future publications will be enthusiastically welcomed.

MMA is the result of a 50-member organization committee comprised of representatives from all over the state who saw the need for lines of communication between the over 200 museum and museum- related organizations in Missouri. During the past year this committee has drawn up plans for a set of bylaws to allow discussion of common goals, organization of exhibits and loans, to provide solutions to problems and to publish a quarterly newsletter.

Interested Columbia residents include Dr. Saul Weinberg, director of the UMC Museum of Art and Archaeology, Dr. Richard S. Brownlee, director and secretary of the State Historical Society of Missouri, and Sid Larsen, art department director, Columbia College. Mrs. Evangeline Groth of the Museum of Science and Natural History, St. Louis, is designing a logo for future MMA publications and letterhead.

A Season for Love

SUMMER SITUATIONS. By Ann Birstein. Coward, McCann. $5.95.

There are three novellas in this book. In each case women are the central figures, and quite bitchy types they are, too. The title happens to refer to the fact that the scenes are in summertime, which may or may not be an excuse for what the characters do.

"Love in the Dunes" is about two families from a faculty background, sharing a summer house at the beach. One of the wives, Shirley, has an itch for the other husband, Charlie; she doesn't particularly care whether her husband Max flirts with Charlie's wife Marlene. The cautious Charlie is seduced by Shirley, but the twist is that she realizes it's only a summer game, unlikely to continue when they all return to the campus.

Many Towns Claim First Memorial Day

At least 25 communities have proclaimed their town as the site of the first Memorial day observance in the United States.

As far back as July 4, 1864, three women members of a church in Boalsburg, Pa., inscribed on a stone monument placed flowers on the graves of their Civil war dead. A sign on the edge of the village's cemetery calls the town the birthplace of Memorial day.

In April, 1865, Sue Landon Vaughan, a descendant of President John Adams, put out a call to decorate graves to another 40 where Union soldiers were buried; they laid flowers on the burial places of the enemy soldiers.

This act brought about the writing of a poem titled "The Blue and the Gray," by Miles Finch, an Ithaca, N. Y., lawyer. This event and the poem are said to have given more impetus to the now nationwide custom than any other single action.

Meanwhile, in Columbus, Ga., in a letter to the editor, a woman named Mrs. Mary Williams appealed to everyone to dedicate one day in the year to cover soldiers' graves with flowers. April 26 was indicated as the preferred date because that was the anniversary of the surrender of Gen. Joseph E. Johnston, who commanded the last of the forces of the Confederate army.

At the Linwood cemetery in Columbus, a tombstone marks the grave of Lizzie Rutherford Ellis, whom Mrs. Williams credited with giving her the original suggestion.

There are several episodes involving the origin of this day in Richmond, Va. One is that Cassandra Oliver Moncure Lyne decorated graves in both the city's Oakwood and Hollywood cemeteries. The date chosen was May 10 because it was the anniversary of the death of Gen. Stonewall Jackson. Then, there was an observance on June 3 of the same year, 1866, at Belle Isle on the James river near Richmond.

Other communities, mostly in the South, have also claimed credit for the origin of the observance, according to Ernest C. Klein, pastor of St. Peter's United Church of Christ in Huntington, Ind., and an Army reserve chaplain for the 12th Special Forces group, who wrote a short history on the origin of Memorial day for the Military Order of the Loyal Legion, a patriotic organization with Civil war roots.

They are Winchester, Petersburg, Fredericksburg, Warrenton and Portsmouth, all in Virginia; Atlanta and Milledgeville in Georgia; Camden, Ark.; Cincinnati; Mobile and Montgomery in Alabama; New Orleans; Raleigh, N. C.; Vicksburg, Miss.; Washington and Hopkinton, Ia.

The day came into general acceptance in 1868 when Gen. John Alexander Logan, head of the Grand Army of the Republic, a civilian patriotic organization, issued his Order No. 11 proclaiming that May 30 was to be a nationwide date for decorating the graves of the war dead of both sides.

Not everyone went along with the date at the time and even now Southern states have their own memorial days. April 26 is the day in Alabama, Florida, Georgia and Mississippi. In the Carolinas it is May 10 with Louisiana and Tennessee it is June 3.

Memorial day is included in recent federal legislation which calls for four major holidays to fall on appropriate Mondays. The new law applies to only federal and District of Columbia employees, but most states are expected to go along with the new setup.

In all events, in the government cemeteries all over the world where over a half million American servicemen are buried, official observances will be held, in 23 cemeteries in foreign countries, a small American flag from the American government and flowers from various nationalists will adorn the graves.

In 97 cemeteries located in America the same size flag will be used. The largest number of war dead is at Arlington cemetery outside Washington. A total of 120,000 graves there will be decorated.

Skin Expert Advises Women To Spend Time Removing Makeup

NEW YORK (AP) — "Keep your face perfect so you can show it naked," says skin care authority Georgette Klinger, who would like to see women spend as much time taking off their makeup as they do putting it on.

Miss Klinger has been pampering skin for 30 years, and is the blue and white office of her Madison Avenue salon she was willing to point out some ways for women — and men — to achieve healthy complexions. A petite and graceful woman, whose unlined face is a testimony to her skills, she refused, however, to generalize about how each individual should take care of her skin. "What each one does — it should all be different," she stated.

"People don't know about taking care of their skins," she began, pointing out that the time to start serious skin care is "when the first blackhead arrives."

There's a lot of pollution now, so many more people have skin allergies and clogged pores," she says. Hair is more of a problem too, with all the hair sprays and setting lotions. Using hair spray is like putting varnish on the face."

Miss Klinger says she is against the "so-called medicated makeup. The base is so heavy it clogs pores and cake makeup does the same thing," she explains.

She urges women to stay out of the sun — "it's drying, discoloring and causes changes in pigmentation" and she maintains that women need different cleansers in the summer.

Miss Klinger recently expanded and redecorated her salon, devoting an entire floor to her male clients who, she says, are numerous. The reception area is plush — swirls wall to wall carpeting and walls that are either mirrored or covered with linen, but the treatment rooms, where her clients recline in white lounge chairs under blue and white coverlets, are sparse, spotless and clinically bare.

Her facials are individualized, but one might include removal of makeup, a pore-cleaning mask, massage with cream and even a face steaming over a bowl of herbal tea.

In this age of concern for the "natural," with skin potions being made from all kinds of berries and vegetables, Miss Klinger says, "Strawberries and cucumbers are good to eat but they don't belong on your face." She points out, however, that long before use of natural products was a fad, she was using ones such as honey masks, cod liver oil masks and avocado oils which she says have proven value.

Her staff includes a resident chemist and Miss Klinger says she would be the first one to send a client to a dermatologist if necessary. But she maintains that in most cases the skin is a cosmetic rather than a medical problem. She uses no preservatives to extend the shelf life of her products, and she refuses to sell them through any outlets outside her own salon. Nor does she advertise.

"You have to promise miracles when you advertise," she says, "and I don't believe in miracles — just good skin care. My pride is the grandmothers who look just as good as their granddaughters."

COOKING-UP with judy gazett

In answer to several requests for casseroles, I have to tell you, I've tried very few new ones of late, but I do have some trusty ones filed away. The Beef-Bean is the oldest one on my records -- I made it for the first time when I was about 12 or 13. And that's a good idea ... put your youngsters to work in the kitchen!

Nothing quick and easy about the Hungry Boys' dish, however it will treat a fairly large crowd. It was a bake-off winner several years ago.

Also including two rules for easy pastry -- ones that haven't failed me yet.

Asparagus season is here ... or so I'm told ... I haven't had time to search fence rows and railroad tracks, but I'm sure it's there. It's easy to freeze and high in nutrition, so take advantage.

What glorious weather! At last ... we must have pleased the Gods!

Be Happy ...!

She Has her Job All Sewn Up Ready To Ship It to the Moon

SPACE AGE SEAMSTRESS Mrs. Ann Nieroda is shown here working on the thermal insulation blankets that will go to the moon with Apollo 16.

MOORESTOWN, N.J. (AP) — Petticoats and pajamas won't go to the moon with Apollo 16 but some of Mrs. Ann Nieroda's stitching will.

She is a space-age seamstress who designs, develops and finally sews the multi-layered plastic thermal insulation blankets that will be wrapped around much of the hardware on the spacecraft. The blankets are needed because the temperatures in space turn up down much deeper or climb higher than on earth.

Before she was even a teenager Mrs. Nieroda learned from her mother how to make petticoats and pajamas. Now she still sews as an avocation. When her husband, a Sea Nut City banker, died she left her native Brooklyn, settled in Monmouth Junction near here, a few years ago and became a specialist in sewing mylar plastic thermal coverings.

The trick to this, she explains, is that unlike woven cloth, the stitching cannot be removed from the mylar without permanently damaging it, so a mistake can be very costly.

She recently completed the thermal coverings — some of which have as many as 27 thicknesses — for the Ground Commanded Television Assembly (GCTA) and the Lunar Communications Relay Unit (LCRU). coverings that will blanket equipment during the flight to Apollo 16. While most of the public will be generally conscious only of the color cameras that will send back pictures from the moon, Mrs. Nieroda will be watching to see if the thermal insulation will keep much of the sophisticated gear warm enough — or cool enough — to make the mission a success.

Mrs. Nieroda has worked in the electronics industry for more than 15 years. She has three with RCA's Astro Electronics Division as one of the few women who helped boost men to the moon.

Texas Parade Of Good Looks

DALLAS — (NEA) — From the 22nd annual presentation of the Texas Fashion Creators Assn. comes a parade of looks that go from spring into summer.

The theme could be "three cheers for the red, white and blue," in everything from sportswear to late evening fashions. And black and white, in abstract prints, is a combo that is giving the patriotic colors a close run for the money and creating a mood of its own.

Nostalgia makes its appearance in seersucker, pique, voile and gingham, but they are updated for '72 in versatile blends of knits and woven fabrics. King Cotton lives up to the name in the royal treatment given it by the Texans.

There are dots with dots, dots with prints and dots with stripes and a wonderful burgeoning of flora in delicate prints.

To accent the designs, belts have distinctive closings, embroidery is elaborate and appliques are colorful. These show up in such unexpected places as on the flare of a pant leg.

Airlines Chided For Not Using Hi jack Checks

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Aviation Administration has accused two airlines of failing to screen passengers boarding flights that were later hijacked.

One of the airlines—Pacific Southwest—denied it violated new FAA regulations aimed at preventing hijackings, and the other—United—said it was conducting a full investigation of all security procedures.

The FAA Tuesday gave the airlines 20 days to reply to the charges that could result in penalizing the carriers $1,000 for each violation found.

In the United hijacking last Friday, a gunman held the plane for $500,000 ransom and parachuted with the money. The PSA case two days later appeared patterned after the United incident, but the hijacker was captured before any money was paid.

The FBI has arrested suspects in both cases.

The hijackings were the first since adoption of new FAA rules Feb. 6 requiring airlines to screen passengers to prevent weapons or explosives from being put aboard commercial aircraft.

SPRING

Spring came to me when I was young.
It only seems like yesterday.
I sat beside the windowsill
and watched the sunshine melt away.

Then winter came without a word
and took the Spring away from me.
The cold wind swept into my heart
and filled my days with misery.

But winter leaves me unafraid;
no tears are lost for one old friend.
I merely sit and count the rain,
and wait for Spring to come again.

Librarians Will Meet At Cape

CAPE GIRARDEAU -- Southeast Missouri State College will host the spring meeting Saturday of the Missouri Association of College and Reference Librarians.

The meeting will be in Kent Library with registration to begin at 9:30 a.m. There will be a business meeting at 10, and the first general session will begin at 10:30 with an address by Dr. August R. Suelflow, librarian of Concordia Historical Institute which is affiliated with Concordia Seminary in St. Louis.

Dr. Suelflow, who is nationally- known in his field, will discuss the conference theme, "Archives and Local History," according to Dr. Felix Snider, director of libraries at Southeast Missouri State.

Dr. Snider said about 50 members of the association will attend the meeting, and he extended an invitation to history teachers, librarians, and any other persons to attend as well, noting that the theme was decided upon with the thought that it would have some general appeal.

Saturday afternoon's session will include a report on the results of a survey of Missouri colleges by the organization "as to what they have and what they are doing with archives," said Dr. Snider. There will also be a symposium on local history collections with representatives from each campus participating, and a presentation by Mildred Vogelsang, librarian at Cape Central High School, on the selection, handling, and utilization of clippings.

Dr. Snider is also scheduled to talk briefly about local history. "I haven't decided whether to approach it from the standpoint of the librarian or that of the publisher," he said. Dr. Snider is owner of the Ramfre Press which specializes in publishing historical books on southeast Missouri.

At 3 p.m. the campus visitors will tour Kent Library and see a demonstration of the library's automated acquisitions system, which was recently implemented, using the facilities of Southeast Missouri State's computer center.

At the morning business meeting members of the association will elect officers, decide upon the next meeting site, and possibly select a theme for the next meeting, Dr. Snider said. Dr. Mark F. Scully, president of Southeast Missouri State, will welcome the group to the campus.

Current president of the organization is Mrs. Betty Duvall of Florissant Valley Community College in St. Louis County.

The Missouri Association of College and Reference Librarians is a division of the Missouri Library Association and meets jointly with that organization each fall while scheduling a separate meeting on different campuses around the state each spring.

"We invited them down when we moved into our new building," Dr. Snider said, "and they're just now getting around to us."
